

Official Says Viet Nam Only and Struggle

ence Holds Country
High Diplomat Claims

OWIEC of the situation in South Viet Nam clashed with the official U.S. line but coincided with the views of many other diplomats and observers.

"South Viet Nam today is not a country," he said. "It is a group of feuding religious groups, of defiant warlords, of generals refusing to obey the orders of Saigon, of entire areas under Communist control, of political parties and groupings none of which can exercise a determining influence."

U.S. Presence
"Only the presence of Americans holds it together."

"The United States must remain here. How less and for how long I don't know. But its departure from here would mean an immediate disaster."

American planners are hopeful that South Viet Nam can be forged politically in elections promised this summer. Most other diplomats and observers believe that elections are not possible in this nation at war—and that a valid vote could not result.

The country has more than 70 political parties, none of them large enough to take a determined lead.

Strong Force
The Buddhists, often described as one of the strongest political forces, are divided into three main quarrelling factions.

The Hoa Hoa and Cao Dai religious sects also demand influence, but they are limited to small, but they are limited to two small regions of the country without impact on the rest. A simmering revolt of the Montagnard tribesmen openly defies the central government.

The Catholics, about 15 per cent of Viet Nam's 15 million people, are ready to defend their rights.

In Neenah Since '55

Dan E. Danielson, 59, 1004 Main St., Neenah, was killed in a two-car accident west of Reedsville about 3:30 p.m. Sunday, which brought the state highway death toll to 266, seven ahead of last year on this date.

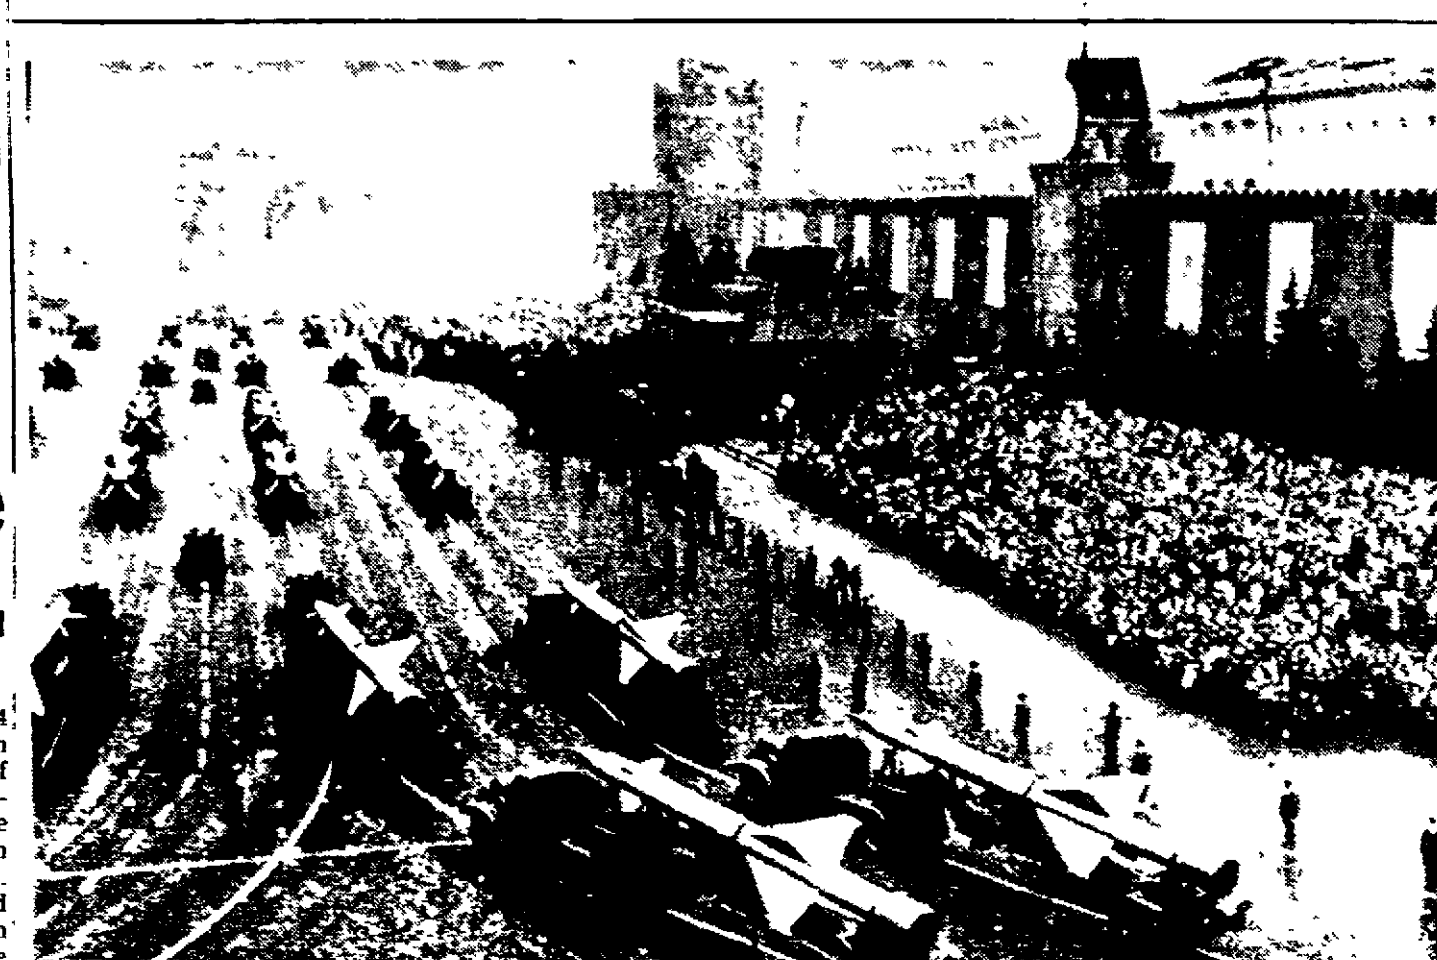

Manitowoc County police said Danielson was traveling west on U.S. 10 followed by a vehicle driven by Richard T. Isaacson, 18, route 2, Reedsville. Isaacson struck the left rear end of the Danielson vehicle causing it to run into a ditch where it rolled over, police said.

The Isaacson vehicle continued on into a field where it stopped without appreciable damage. Police said Danielson was taken to Holy Name Hospital, Manitowoc, where he died about two hours later.

Danielson, who succeeded Carl Christensen as director of the Neenah Vocational School in 1955, was born in Manitowoc.

Communist Launch Area Demolished

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U. S. Navy fighter-bombers demolished another antiaircraft missile site near the North Vietnamese city of Vinh, but in the South the lull in the ground war extended into a third week, the U.S. command reported today.

American planes flew more than 300 sorties against suspected Communist targets in South Viet Nam. For the second day in a row B52s from Guam pounded Viet Cong troop areas near the Cambodian border.

Although weather curtailed air missions over the Communist North, A4 Skyhawks and F8 Crusaders from the carrier Hancock saturated the missile site 34 miles northeast of Vinh, on the North Vietnamese coast, with Bullpup air-to-surface missiles and 500- and 600-pound bombs. A spokesman said they destroyed everything within a 400-foot-square area, including two Soviet-built missile launchers.

U.S. spokesmen reported the loss of two more planes over North Viet Nam, raising the total shot down there to 227, but the pilots of both were rescued by helicopters. Four U.S. planes were lost over the North Friday.

Commenting on the lull in the ground war, the spokesman declared: "We have hurt these people a great deal in recent months. We're sure they are still pouring people in here from North Viet Nam at the rate of 5,000 a month. I don't believe they have supplies for support."

The infiltration figure, however, represents an increase of 1,000 men a month over Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's estimate to the Senate two months ago.

Across the 17th Parallel frontier, a U.S. helicopter picked up a downed U.S. airman at dawn after he eluded Communist pursuers through the night in the mountains of North Viet Nam near the Laotian border.

Communist gunners beat off three attempts Sunday afternoon to rescue Air Force Capt. James M. Ingalls of Palo Alto, Calif. He was the 48th pilot brought out of the Communist North this year.

The vice president called the FBI; then he called Meyer, who took down his shotgun and joined Jansen at the bank. Together they sat and waited for the arrival of the FBI or the return of the person who blocked the chute.

Forty minutes later a car with Illinois license plates drove up the bank's and a man got out. Jansen and Meyer, his shotgun ready, crept by the drive-up window and watched.

They said the man worked a Kelly, 33, of wire down into the depository chute. The bankers were told by the FBI that an agent would arrive within an hour. He hadn't, so they decided to act on their own.

"Chuck asked if he should go outside and stop him and I told him okay. But when Chuck had gone out I had a little fear that maybe I shouldn't have done it. I didn't want the man to get hurt."

Meyer rushed out the back door and pointed the shotgun. "Get away from that box!" he shouted.

"I'm just going to make a deposit," the man replied, Meyer recalled.

"You don't make a deposit with a wire," Meyer said he answered.

Notified Police
A woman was sitting in the car and Meyer ordered her outside. He directed both the woman and the man against the wall. Meanwhile, Jansen, seeing that Meyer had the situation under control, notified police.

Within five minutes police arrived to take over.

Surprising Might,
Polls 30 Per Cent

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — The Colombian presidential election went off as expected Sunday with Sen. Carlos Lleras Restrepo voted in by a large margin.

Lleras' little known opponent, attorney Jose Jaramillo Giraldo, showed surprising strength. With more than 60 per cent of the ballots counted, he drew more than 30 per cent of the vote, 565,168 to 1,327,320 for Lleras.

In a victory statement, Lleras said: "I have received overwhelming support for my program for the social transformation of Colombia."

Foreign Policy
"A keystone of my administration's foreign policy will be our friendship with the United States," he said. But he added that this "did not exclude cordial discussions and friendly discussions whenever it is necessary."

Obviously galled by the large vote polled by Jaramillo, he accused a splinter Conservative group formed by followers of the late President Laureano Gomez of throwing their support to his opponent.

Mao Mystery Spurs Speculation On Possible Changes in Red China

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — Deepening mystery over the fate of Mao Tse-tung spurred speculation among U.S. officials today about a possible power shift in Red China with worldwide repercussions.

The belief that the Chinese Communist leadership may be approaching a transition period is one of several reasons for

be a prime cause of their determination to hold the door open to some sort of Soviet-Chinese reconciliation.

The Chinese refused to attend a recent Communist Party meeting in Moscow but the Soviets nevertheless left the way clear for some later improvement in relations.

Relations as Key
Mao's situation is regarded here as the key to what is likely to happen in Peking in the next few weeks or months. But it is a key which the outside world, reportedly including Soviet as well as American experts on Chinese Communist affairs, does not presently understand.

Mao, 72, last made a public appearance in November when he received a delegation from Cambodia. His absence from subsequent public ceremonies did not at first arouse interest here and in other world capitals, since it has been his pattern to drop from sight for two or three months at a time.

But when he failed to reappear in Peking as winter ended, U.S. experts began to speculate that he was ill. The belief that he has suffered a serious illness, or perhaps undergone a major operation is now the dominant view in official Washington circles. He did not appear at Sunday's May Day celebration.

Deifying Mao
Another cause of the belief here that Mao is or has been seriously ill is the fact that the Chinese press has been engaged for more than a month now in virtually deifying him.

The interest of Soviet leaders in the possibility of personality changes in the top of the Peking ruling group is believed here to

The view that Chinese leaders who carry on after Mao inevitably will do things differently is widely held among U.S. experts on China. They do not, however,

All these gestures have been rebuffed by the Peking regime, but administration experts believe they may have an impact on the foreign policy attitude of future Chinese leaders.

The United States and, so far as Washington authorities can determine the Soviet Union, also, have been watching the Mao mystery develop for several months with growing fascination.

3 Faculty Musicians In Thursday Recital

Foreign Composers Dominate Program Of 20th Century Music at Harper Hall

Three Lawrence Conservatory faculty members will share in a recital of 20th century music planned for 8 p.m. Thursday in Lawrence Music-Drama Center's Harper Hall.

Pianist Theodore Rehl, clarinetist Dan C. Sparks, and flutist Kristin Webb will offer duo and trio literature in a program dominated by foreign composers.

Their selections: Sonata pour Clarinette et Piano, by Bohuslav Martinu; Jeux pour Flute et Piano, by Jacques Ibert; Vier Stucke fur Klarinette und Klavier, by Alban Berg; Silhouettes pour Flute et Piano, by Jean Absil; Sonata pour Flute et Clarinette, by Jean Cartan; and Trio, by Ton de Leeuw.

Three of the composers, Martinu, Ibert and Berg, are well known to local audiences. Martinu's sonatina, dated 1957, is among his last chamber works, and is recognized as an important contribution to the contemporary repertoire. It is cast in a three-part form, and abounds in synchopation.

Descriptive in Tone

Ibert, known for his combinations of impressionist and neo-classic techniques has given his duo the descriptive movement titles, "Annie" and "Tendre."

Berg's four pieces are typical romantic treatments of the new tonal concepts employed by his teacher, Schoenberg, to whom the pieces are dedicated. They employ a wide dynamic and harmonic range, and offer contrasting moods and tempi.

Among the lesser known composers, Absil represents an East European School of composition, with his "Silhouettes" hinting of Rumanian folklore. His four pieces are coherent, poised and superbly colored.

Three Parts

Cartan is little known beyond his days as a student of Widor and Dukas at the Paris Conservatory. His sonatina is set in three movements, "Pastorale," "Berceuse," and "Rondeau."

De Leeuw's trio is dominated by a complex form of notation in which the performers read in visual units of time, rather than

Color Planned for Next Season With Accent on Youth
By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Whither Peyton Place? Next season will find it younger, more colorful and reduced in quantity by one-third.

This is the report from one of the youthful members of the king-size cast of the unending ABC detergent opera. His name is Chris Connelly, and he plays Norman Harrington.

"The accent seems to be on youth for the coming season," he remarked. "They tell us that 35 to 40 per cent of our audience is composed of teen-agers, so I guess that the teen-age hand rules the television set."

Newcomers Young

"The new members that are being added to the cast — Susan Oliver, Lana Wood, Gary Haines and Stephen Oliver — are all young, and the older actors who have left the cast aren't being replaced."

"The young viewers seem to be interested in the problems of their own age. Of course, show was switched to Monday, they're still interested in the But it will be better yet with stars who have been in 'Peyton only two shows."

the right play. Weep only a few tears. South played the king of clubs from dummy, and the opponents took two club tricks in a hurry.

"I'd have been a hero if I'd played the jack of clubs," South remarked dolefully. He was wrong. He'd have been lucky, but no hero.

The club guess should be South's third line of attack. He should make a heart play first and a diamond play second. If both fail, he should try to guess the right play in clubs.

Queen Drops
 South should draw three rounds of trumps, discarding a club from dummy. Then he should cash the top hearts and ruff a heart. When the queen of hearts falls, South gets to dummy with a diamond and discards a club on the jack of hearts. This guarantees the slam.

If the queen of hearts fails to drop South should lead out the three top diamonds. If each opponent holds three diamonds, South can discard a club on dummy's last diamond.

If both red suits fail to produce the twelfth trick, South ruffs dummy's last diamond and leads a club. Only now is it necessary for South to put himself to the guess.

The big advantage of playing the red suits first in this hand is that each attempt costs nothing and leaves you in position for the next attempt.

ANSWER: Bid 1 NT. This shows about 6 to 10 points in high cards, with neither a suit worth bidding nor trump support enough for a raise of partner's suit.

Use Footing For Safer Driveway

BY ROGER G. WHITMAN

Q: Instead of poured concrete, I plan to build a driveway of concrete blocks, with the blocks only being two tracks, just wide enough for the car. What should go under these two rows, so the blocks won't sink in case of a stretch of wet weather?

A: If you're driving a small car, only an underlying bed of cinders or gravel (for fast drainage) should be enough. For a heavier car, concrete footings, or at least another row of blocks underneath — laid lengthwise across the paths — would be a reasonably safe precaution against any of the blocks sinking or shifting.

Q: My hardwood floors are very old. They have an orange color, due to much cleaning and waxing. There are small black spots I am unable to remove without sanding or steel wool. Is there any cleaner which will remove them without affecting the orange color?

A: If there are only a few spots, first try individual removal with strong scouring powder. If some of the orange disappears in the process, touch it up again with orange shellac. If the whole floor is polka-dotted, then it would be quicker and better to rent a floor sanding machine and clean up the whole business at once. Then you can refinish the floors, starting with orange shellac.

topped with two thin coats of long this would take! Yes, there is a nonskid type of paint, but I doubt if it's made for outdoor exposure. This type is made for industrial uses, such as treating greasy floors in factories to reduce accidents. Ask your paint dealer about this. How- ever, if you use it, be prepared for constant repainting when it starts to wear off in hard-wear surface with a mallet and cold sand generously in regular paint chisel; I hate to think of how and get a non-skid effect.

Q: My concrete driveway was finished too smoothly. During wet weather, the surface is so slick it's easy to slip and fall. Any suggestions on how to correct this condition? Is there a non-skid type of paint?

A: If you have the time and patience, you can roughen the surface with a mallet and cold sand generously in regular paint chisel; I hate to think of how and get a non-skid effect.

Bad Memories

You can't trust your memory end of each week. When the lat- for figures and reduce success- fully. There are too many fig- ures to account for. Adding up your daily calorie intake with accuracy requires pencil and paper. And you must be accu- rate, or you will not lose weight at a satisfactory speed.

If you follow the wise proced- ure of weighing weekly and ter figures around 8400 calories. you can be certain of a loss of two pounds at weigh-in time.

But certain or not, write down your weight as soon as you get off the scale. Also record your measurements at the moment of taking, and be careful how you measure. Be sure to use an un- stretched tape. A flexible vinyl yardstick that curves with the body gives a true measurement. 'or it will neither stretch nor fall slack. Always place tape around widest part of the area being measured.

By keeping your records you take the guesswork out of re- ducing. You know exactly where your successes and failures lie— whether you should eat less and exercise more, for instance.

Do you really know the calorie counts of the foods you eat? Our new booklet, Pocket Calorie Counter, tells the scores at a glance. It also gives a diet plan—a way to eat and slim. For your copy, write Mary Sue Mil- ler, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10 cents in coin.

Imaginative Dash

Why guess? Why not chart your progress? For the purpose, a small engagement book, one showing a week at a glance, works well. It gives you space to jot down your total calorie in- take at the end of each day and broccoli. Pretty and flavorful! to compute a grand total at the platter!

Your Problems

Ann Recants: Says No Ashtray Serves as 'No Smoking' Hint

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You were wrong, wrong when you said people should have ash trays around for guests who smoke even if they don't smoke themselves. Why? To encourage the filthy habit? Ash trays are an invitation to smoke. When there are no ash trays a guest should take the hint.

We have no ash trays in our home because we don't want people to smoke. If a guest asks if he may light up we tell him (as politely as we can) to take his cigarettes outside. He can like it or lump it.

I happen to know you are a non-smoker, Ann, and that you have repeatedly spoken out against tobacco. In a recent column you told a teen-ager, "Smoking is a dirty, offensive, ugly habit and we now have indisputable evidence that it is damaging to health. Don't start."

Why did you suddenly abandon this stand? Please explain. Deeply Disappointed

Dear Deeply: You are right. I was wrong. I plead temporary insanity and recommend that my punishment be 10 lashes with a wet tobacco leaf. When there are no ash trays in sight a guest should indeed take the hint. You are correct when you say I am a militant anti-cigarette girl. I blast the weed whenever I can — in fact I've been accused of being a bit of a nut on the subject. I know someone who is even nuttier than I am and I'm going to print part of his column which appeared in the Minneapolis Tribune. The writer is Will Jones and this is what he had to say:

"An open letter from a Non-Smoker to All Smokers: Having trouble kicking the habit? Well, upon anyone and that got me sick of hearing about it. I'm mad. I grabbed the cigarette out and yapping about the surgeon tore it to shreds. general's report. I'm board with all the jokes about the trouble you're having trying to give up cigarettes.

"For 40 years I've lived in a world dominated by smokers. I've complained very little. I've accepted the fact that this is a smoker's world. But I'm through being quiet about it.

"Do you know how you smokers look to those of us who don't smoke? You are ill-bred, ill-mannered, inconsiderate slob. You may think you look glamorous like the smokers in the ads and the movies, but you don't. You have a nasty habit and you look ridiculous. Furthermore you stink. Your clothes stink, your breath stinks and you stink up the whole world around you.

"I play a little game with women who expect me to light their cigarettes. I out-wait them. Some give up and light their own. Others ask for a light. Last night one babe said, 'Well, aren't you going to light my cigarette?' I replied, 'No. I'd rather you didn't smoke.' She lit asked. "Yes," she answered. "I am not half as rude as you," I told her.

"I've had it up to here with sore, red eyes caused by other people's smoke. I've had it up to here with burned rugs and floors who not only are slaves to a habit but are so fumble-fingered they can't even handle absolute fireproof privacy. With accepted the fact that this is a smoker's world, you are intolerant. You are the enemy."

No teen-ager is as confident as he appears. Get clued in. Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mrs. Wallace's Race Recalls Two Others

By JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP) — If Lurcall in the concrete man and adopted protecting bank demolition nomination Wednesday in threshold of the mansion's inners responsible to the governor, she'll be on her way toward following the petticoat pattern set by Nellie Tayloe Ross of Wyoming and Miriam Amanda (Ma) Ferguson of Texas, the only two women ever elected governors in the United States.

Mrs. Wallace is admittedly a stand-in for her husband, Gov. George C. Wallace, who is barred by law from another term. Their husband-and-wife team effort is reminiscent of a 1924 Democratic campaign in Texas.

Two for One

"Two governors for the price of one" was Ma and Pa Ferguson's campaign slogan then.

James E. Ferguson had been governor, and his wife made no claim that he wouldn't be helping to run things if she got elected.

"A vote for me is a vote of confidence for my husband, who cannot be a candidate," she would say bluntly. She was not a baby kisser, and even her two daughters admitted she didn't go out of her way to make a good impression.

But the stickers on the Model Ts read: "Me for Ma, and I ain't got a dern thing against Pa." and on Jan. 20, 1925, Ma Ferguson, at 49, became governor of Texas.

At her inauguration she wore black satin trimmed with chin-chilla. Around her neck floated an ivory feather boa, and on her, silver-sprinkled, dark-brown hair rested a feather-decked black hat.

After an Operon Gray Bonnet, a campaign song, accompanied by the Old Gray Mare, she made her inaugural address: "Recognizing and freely admitting my inexperience in governmental affairs, I must ask the advice and counsel of others."

Husband In Office
Everybody knew that meant that Jim Ferguson, impeached in 1917, was back in the gubernatorial mansion. Ma Ferguson's first official fact that same afternoon was to farmers. She got a measure call in the concrete man and adopted protecting bank demolition nomination Wednesday in threshold of the mansion's inners responsible to the governor, she'll be on her way toward following the petticoat pattern set by Nellie Tayloe Ross of Wyoming and Miriam Amanda (Ma) Ferguson of Texas, the only two women ever elected governors in the United States.

fore Ma — Nellie Tayloe Ross took the oath of office as governor of Wyoming, first state to give women the vote.

Up to that moment Mrs. Ross, a slender, good-looking Missouri-born blonde of 45 — "a southern belle" everyone liked to say — had been only a mother of three boys — a fourth had died in infancy — and a housewife taking no part in politics.

Then her husband, Gov. William Bradford Ross, died in office, and the Democratic State Convention nominated her to serve the remainder of the term.

Had Wide Margin
Mrs. Ross had had a close intellectual association with her husband — a contemporary biography put it — and through him gained an intimate knowledge of practical politics.

She carried all but 3 of 23 counties in the election, and at her inauguration she pledged she would continue her husband's policies.

Her first message to the Legislature stressed tax relief for clearing her husband's name. The Legislature passed an amnesty bill — rescinded during a later administration — that restored Jim Ferguson's civil rights and expunged the impeachment proceedings.

The Ferguson team ran again and again. Ma winning a second term in 1932. She was defeated in 1940.

She was no rubber stamp. When the Fergusons disagreed on issues, and they did occasionally, well, she was governor.

For example, Jim Ferguson had been sponsoring a certain man for office. Ma finally put her foot down with these words: "He may have all the qualifications in the world, but he drinks liquor and runs around with wild women, and I'll not have him in my official family."

Back ache sufferers should sleep on a firm mattress — that's what one orthopedic surgeon told some 15,000 doctors attending the recent annual meeting of the American Med. Assn. in Atlantic City. About nine back-ache cases in 10 are of minor importance, in these cases definite relief can be achieved by sleeping on a scientifically constructed firm mattress.

Luci, Fiance to be Feted in Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Luci Washington of the 1966 Cam-Johnson and her fiancé, Patrick Nugent, plan to return to Milwaukee late this month for a dinner-dance in their honor. The President's daughter met Nugent in Milwaukee while he was a student at Marquette University. The party will be held May 28 at the Milwaukee Athletic Club and will be given by Mr. and Mrs. William J. Feldstein of suburban Whitefish Bay. Feldstein, a clothing manufacturer, and his wife are friends of President and Mrs. Johnson. Arrangements for the party were completed last month while Mrs. Feldstein was in Washington for the 1966 Campaign Conference of Democratic Women.

"I had discussed it earlier with both Luci and Mr. Johnson," Mrs. Feldstein said Saturday. "We agreed that it would be a good idea to entertain them here because both Luci and Patrick have many friends in this area."

"She has visited here frequently, and he's a graduate of Marquette and comes from nearby Waukegan."

Will See Friends
"Luci seemed very happy about the party. She realizes that many of hers and Patrick's friends will not be able to come to the wedding because of jobs or other reasons, and she's glad they'll be able to see them here."

Luci and Nugent plan to wed Aug. 6 in Washington. Luci will be a house guest of the Feldsteins the party weekend. Plans now call for her to arrive May 27. Nugent will stay at a Marquette fraternity house. About 125 invitations to the party have been mailed with guest list supplied by the White House.

The President and Mrs. Johnson have been invited, but Mrs. Feldstein said she did not know whether either would be able to attend.

MRS. D. J.

Don't make your daughter pay the price of crying with colic or fear in order to get a snuggle from you. Make certain you spend several short periods during the day rocking her until she shows, by squirming or falling asleep, that she has had enough contact with you. Young children often cry when separated from the person who means the most to them. As she becomes more aware of her own self, she'll become less frantic over temporary separation from you.

Dear Dr. Jones: Will it harm my two-year-old daughter if she doesn't play with other children until she's old enough to attend school? Also will it harm her if I stay with her at Sunday school? We live in a suburb where there are no children her age. To get her started playing with children, I enrolled her in the Sunday school nursery school,

Schmitt Harmony Wins Audience in Appleton

BY PAT DUFFEY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Donning 10-gallon hats, the Schmitt Brothers of Two Rivers strolled into the Appleton Barbershopper's Chord Buster Corral Saturday night, and, as usual, stole the hearts of an appreciative Fox Cities audience at Appleton High School.

The Schmitts, joined on the program by another set of brothers, the Ellefsons, plus the Bad-Aires and Captivators, were backed by a corral of costumed ranch hands of the host Appleton chapter.

The Valley-Aires' chorus set the tempo with the cowboy ballads, "Lone Prairie," "Ragtime Cowboy Joe," and "Empty Saddle." Barbershop chapters in recent years have been meeting with success with productions featuring special lighting, songs and other effects that a stage can offer.

Convincing Warmup
The Captivators, representing contributions of both the Kaukauna-Little Chute and Appleton chapters, offered a convincing warmup for their coming performance in Land O'Lakes District quartet competition leading to the international championship.

Featuring Carl Schumacher, president of the Appleton chapter at lead, the Captivators showed they could ably handle both soft, delicate tones and common version of "Among My Power Chord Displays of 'I Souvenirs' Really Don't Want to Know." The Schmitts again showed they will soon travel to Grand Forks, S.D., in an attempt to close the cleanup spot to close the earn the right of being one of show. They displayed a talent four quartets from the district to compete at the international. The Ellefsons were best received for their reverent treatment of "When Your Old Wedding Ring Was New," a narration well handled by bass Larry Ellefson, recalling a husband's memory of his bride and wedding day of long ago.

Telephone Quartet
The brothers might well be termed a telephone quartet, a medium they must use to keep in touch between weekly travels from scattered parts of the state for practice in Wausau. Jerry, the baritone, sings with the Valley-Aires.

Unlike the Schmitts of Two Rivers, the Ellefsons have yet to develop a family humor based on their Norwegian heritage, as have the Schmitts with their German background.

The Ellefsons have shown promise as a coming quartet since placing second in the district finals at Appleton last fall. Their rendition of "If I Had the Heart of a Clown" was a show stopper.

The Bad-Aires', 1962 district champs, gave every evidence of being seasoned from travel on the singing circuit as they lightly stepped into the snappy

"I'm a Commie's Courtin' Corabelle." They exhibited style with their rendition of a capital "S" as they breathed new life into an otherwise both soft, delicate tones and common version of "Among My Power Chord Displays of 'I Souvenirs' Really Don't Want to Know." The Schmitts again showed they will soon travel to Grand Forks, S.D., in an attempt to close the cleanup spot to close the earn the right of being one of show. They displayed a talent which has been their trademark ever since the first time they stepped on the Appleton High stage in 1961 as district champs. They burst into immediate song upon reaching center stage and frequently offered one of their traditional numbers for which they have gained fame. It is a talent few other quartets have mastered as well. Their German - English "Brahm's Lullaby" made a fitting finale.

City Officials Criticized for Missed Meeting

Works Director, Mayor Fail to Attend Land Purchase Parley

City officials have been criticized for failing to begin negotiations for the purchase of property needed for the Soldiers Square parking ramp.

A critical letter, written by William T. Gaus, an assistant vice president and trust officer for a Milwaukee bank, was received last week by Mayor George Buckley.

The bank and Mrs. Catherine Davis are executors of the John B. MacLaren Estate.

Gaus disclosed Mayor Buckley and Public Works Director Robert W. Bues failed to keep an appointment on Thursday, April 21, in the mayor's office.

Arranged by Mayor
It had been arranged on Tuesday, April 19, through Mayor Buckley, according to Gaus, to discuss land purchase negotiations.

Referring to the April 21 meeting, Gaus wrote, "We were sorely disappointed when neither you, nor Mr. Bues, managed to keep the appointment."

(Mayor Buckley said he had to attend the dedication ceremonies for the Aid Association for Lutherans that morning. Bues was unable to attend the meeting and left word with his secretary to ask City Planner Walter Rasmussen to meet with them.)

Urgency Needed
"The financial loss put upon this estate in the disruption of three active businesses—including a doctor's clinic, filling station and rental apartments—makes it urgent to bring this matter to a head," Gaus wrote Buckley.

Buckley had a local banker contact Gaus after receiving the letter to tell him the matter would be referred to the board of public works.

Buckley said he received Gaus' letter on Monday, April 25. The mayor announced Thursday, April 28, that he had received an offer to sell from the property owners and said there should be no further delay in starting negotiations.

Pastors Ask Cuts in Cost of High School

NEENAH - MENASHA — Local pastors have protested the $2.5 million estimated cost for the proposed Central Catholic High School, it was learned today.

The pastors met with 25 members of the lay committee of the Twin City Catholic High School in a closed meeting at St. John's Catholic School cafe, good planning — or good for the terra Thursday. A letter was drawn up to the Brothers of St. Mary, who will teach in the school when it is opened, stating the cost amounts to a "prohibitive indebtedness" for the five Twin City parishes committed available for office building construction downtown or near the project.

A request for further deletion, or changes, in the original plans were sought to lower the $2.5 million cost.

Bishop Stanislaus V. Bona, head of the Green Bay Diocese, eliminated to make way for insisted, however, that the duplex apartments near downtown school become a reality by 1968.

City Denies Law Firm's Rezoning Plea

Plan Commission Says Change Would Mean Spot Zoning

A request by an Appleton law firm to rezone residential property at Memorial Drive and Eighth Street for construction of a new office building was rejected today by the city plan commission.

The firm of Sigman, Sigman and Shiff asked for the rezoning, indicating it was presently located in leased quarters and required more space.

A majority of the commission members felt there were properties available in the same area, already zoned for commercial use, which could be considered for an office building.

Members Hesitant
As a result, there was hesitancy on their part to "spot zone" by taking a house in a residential area and allowing the property to be zoned for commercial.

Denial of the rezoning came on a 4 to 2 vote with Mayor George Buckley and Public Works Director Robert W. Bues dissenting.

Before the vote, a letter from Ald. R. P. Groh (8th) was read to the commission in which he said rezoning would not be good planning. Groh said he was against strip zoning and indicated that is what would happen if the petition request was granted.

Earlier, Samuel and Abraham Sigman, brothers in the law firm, explained future plans and reasons for wanting to build their own office building.

House Rundown
Samuel Sigman said the house, located on the southwest corner of Memorial Drive and Eighth Street, was in rundown condition and would be torn down to make way for the office building.

"Our project will improve the looks of the street and will be good for Appleton," Sigman said. He said adjacent properties would not be harmed by the law firm's proposed building plans.

Sigman also indicated there would be no objection from nearby residents, claiming they wanted the project.

'Not Spot Zoning'
"This would not be spot zoning as such," Abraham Sigman said. "Our project merely represents a growing development of the street." He indicated the character of the area was changing and predicted it would become commercial.

The Sigmans said their law firm has been in business in Appleton for 40 years, and their office plans were for the future. They emphasized the house on the property was an eyesore and would be torn down.

Plan Commissioner Raymond LeVee questioned the condition of the house now occupying the corner and declared, "If this building is in such bad shape I would like to know why the building inspector hasn't ordered it condemned."

LeVee cautioned the commission there was a danger of rezoning residential properties to commercial near the downtown area.

Others Available
"It is our understanding here there are other properties already zoned for commercial purposes which could be used for erecting an office building," LeVee said.

LeVee said it would not be good planning — or good for the terra Thursday. A letter was drawn up to the Brothers of St. Mary, who will teach in the school when it is opened, stating the cost amounts to a "prohibitive indebtedness" for the five Twin City parishes committed available for office building construction downtown or near the project.

A request for further deletion, or changes, in the original plans were sought to lower the $2.5 million cost.

Bishop Stanislaus V. Bona, head of the Green Bay Diocese, eliminated to make way for insisted, however, that the duplex apartments near downtown school become a reality by 1968.

SHERWOOD — Seventh and eighth grade pupils at Sacred Heart School were urged last week to begin considering what they intend to do in life.

Sister Mary Monica, eighth grade teacher at St. Theresa School, Appleton, spoke to the pupils and members of the Home-School Association.

Adelbert Kees and Ralph Gries were appointed to contact the county Soil Conservation Service to find out the cost of alleviating the muddy condition of the playground, which is due to improper drainage.

Rev. Michael Drexler, pastor, told the association it could make recommendations to the parish for improving the playground.

Appointed to a nominating committee were Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Brantmeier, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Thiel and Kees. New officers will be elected May 12 after the children's music festival.

4 Menasha Youths Hurt When Car Strikes Embankment

Two, one-car, weekend accidents on State 114 in Calumet County sent five persons to the hospital.

Four Menasha youths were hospitalized as the result of an accident at 11:45 p.m. Saturday four miles south of Darboy.

Calumet County police said a car driven by Gerald L. Jorgenson, 17, 961 Racine St., was rounding a curve, ran onto the raised shoulder where he lost control of the vehicle. The car skidded into the ditch, striking an embankment.

Jorgenson escaped injury, police said, but passengers in the car taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by Larry's ambulance were Pam Kainz, 1 Center St., Linda Hawkson, 17, 7 High St., both suffering cuts and bruises, Tim Luka, 17, 330 Water St., back injury, and Mike Kainz, 18, 1 Center St., cuts and bruises on the head, police said.

Youth Charged in Death Released For Two Weeks

OSHKOSH — James Bland, 19, Racine, charged with homicide through the reckless use of a firearm, was released for an additional two weeks today pending legal conferences between his attorney and the district attorney.

Bland, charged with the shooting of Lawrence Jones, 19, also of Racine, during a birthday party April 23 in a Butte des Morts apartment, was released last week on a $1,000 bond.

He pleaded innocent, but his attorney, Eugene Williams, Oshkosh, requested the postponement to allow time for conferences prior to making a decision concerning a jury trial.

Williams told Judge James V. Bland's next court appearance is set for 10 a.m. May 19 before Judge Sitter.

Cornelius Gets 5-Year Term at Reformatory

12-member county court jury April 21 of criminal trespass in connection with an entry Oct. 31 into the Immaculate Conception Convent. Judge Van Susteren imposed a six month jail sentence on the misdemeanor count, but told the youth that since he has been in custody since his arrest hours after the fires, he has already served the six month sentence.

Judge Van Susteren told Cornelius that the maximum penalty on the three felony counts could be 45 years, but said this morning that to impose the maximum penalty in this case would be "cruel and unthinkable." He told Cornelius that he is aware of the youth's clean record and said he believes the burning of the church and barns "would not have happened" had it not been for the youth's drinking before the fires.

"You undoubtedly were greatly influenced by the beer you drank," the judge told Cornelius. The Milwaukee youth also apparently had been taking county medication for an illness.

The youth also was told by the court that he could be eligible for parole in about a year, depending on his conduct and attitude in the reformatory. Prior to the reading of the sentence, Cornelius asked Judge Van Susteren to read a one-page statement he had written in jail Sunday.

In the statement, Cornelius again contended that his "constitutional rights were repeatedly denied," but that he had "no hard feelings for anyone involved in his case."

He said he wanted to have a certain Appleton attorney appointed to represent him and added that "I myself believe I never had an attorney at all."

Three attorneys had been appointed for Cornelius, and all three were discharged following his objections. The youth had been found indigent at an early court appearance.

He went through the trial without legal counsel and during all three days of the trial refused to take part in his own defense.

Cornelius will begin serving his term Wednesday when he will be taken to Green Bay by sheriff's department authorities.

The Occasional Opera Group made only one mistake when it unveiled its production of Gian-Carlo Menotti's "The Telephone" and "The Old Maid and the Thief" last week at the Lawrence University Music-Drama Center.

By opening this delectable (if not dynamic) duo of comic operas on April 28, instead of Feb. 14, the Fox Cities' own opera company made it impossible — by some 73 days — for a reviewer to send a valentine to the cast, director, crew and sponsoring Kings Daughters' circles.

However, the laughter and applause that greeted the initial performance must have been valentine enough for those workers behind the stage lights and in front of them, who spent so many weeks confecting a delectable evening of harmony and hilarity.

The double bill concluded its three-night run Saturday in the center's experimental theater.

The curtain-raiser (if a production in a three-sided arena may be so described) was "The Telephone," or "L'Amour a Trois," featuring the husband-and-wife team of Sandra and Gavin Young. Mrs. Young, seen several years ago in the group's first enterprise, Mozart's "Abduction from the Harem," played Lucy, whose addition to the telephone seemed fated to defeat the efforts of her admirer, Ben, to propose.

The third character in this neo-baroque triangle was the telephone itself, described by Ben as a "two-headed monster who comes unasked and devours my day."

Not only did the Trümling tormentor bring constant interruptions — wrong numbers, accusations of perjury, gossip and reports of a quarrel — but the cord of the odious instrument became characteristically entangled with itself on opening night, causing yet another complication with which the ever-resourceful Lucy had to cope.

Publisher Dies After Surgery

Harold R. Murphy Started His Career With Denver Paper

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Harold R. Murphy, 59, publisher of a group of suburban weekly newspapers and operator of a radio station, died Sunday in Columbia Hospital.

Murphy, president of the North Shore Publishing Co., had undergone surgery for an aneurysm.

He was co-publisher of the Fox Point-Bayside Herald, the Glendale Herald, the Shorewood Herald, the Whitefish Bay Herald and the Brown Deer Herald. He was also president of radio stations WGLB at Port Washington and WIGM, Medford.

Mount Horeb Native Murphy, a native of Mount Horeb, had been affiliated with the North Shore Publishing Co. since 1936.

He started his newspaper career in Denver, Colo., and later worked in Salt Lake City, Utah; Fresno, Calif., and for the Capital Times in Madison, the Milwaukee Sentinel and for WTMJ, the Journal Co. radio station in Milwaukee. Murphy was a vice president of the Lake Shore Cablevision Co. of Milwaukee.

Singer-Actress

Mrs. Young, a skilled actress, as well as singer, blended both accomplishments in her non-stop role. Young, seen two seasons ago in the Riverside Players' "Music Man," was thoroughly likeable as the tongue-tied lover who, in the end, was saved by the Bell (System, that is).

Although the audience expressed undeniable admiration for "The Telephone," it reserved its heartiest approval for the evening's major effort, "The Old Maid and the Thief."

As gently satirical as it is lyrical (Menotti's rhyme schemes seem to demand emulation), this opera in nine scenes, though originally written for radio, gained appreciably in its translation to the arena stage.

Small Town

Two unmarried ladies — Miss Todd (Nancy Stowe) and her maid, Laetitia (Elaine Fetting) — live together in a modest house in a small American town. Into their midst, much like the muscular interloper of "Picnic," comes a self-confessed beggar, Bob (John Haugner).

Like William Inge's attractive drifter, Bob is hungry, a trifle unscrupulous and possessed of a splendid torso. He accepts the ladies' offer of food, money and a bed. They find him "funny, clever, bright and profound" and take to thievery to keep their reluctant houseguest happy.

Eventually, they break into a liquor store, in a scene of inspired madness, to obtain for him the spirits he craves. The inevitable climax is both pointed and poignant.

Steve Kranzusch First In Cub Pinewood Derby Wooden Racer Contest

Steven Kranzusch captured first place in the annual Pinewood Derby racing event sponsored by Cub Scout Pack No. 6 last week in Jefferson School.

The derby, an annual father-son Cub Scouting event, involves the construction and competition of wooden racing models.

Members of the Fox Cities Foxes, the Appleton Police Department, and Raymond J. Parkinson, Jefferson School principal, judged the derby.

Second place in the racing event was awarded to Robert Brown. Mike Porter won third place.

The most original model award went to John Haubrick, best craftsmanship, Robert Ritter, and most unusual entry, Tom Pohlman.

Spending Battle Is On the Docket This Week for Congress

House Expected to Put Back $232.8 Million in School Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another round in the spending battle between President Johnson and the big Democratic majority in Congress takes place in the House this week. This time the skirmish centers on education and health appropriations.

A week after it defied the President by restoring some $100 million for school lunch and milk programs, the House is expected to support the action of its Appropriations Committee in putting back an extra $232.8 million for impacted school districts.

$489 Million Increase

The increase in funds for areas with substantial numbers of federal workers is part of a $489 million increase over the amount Johnson asked for the departments of Health, Education and Welfare. Other increases are for vocational education and health institutes. A vote on the $10,555,642,300 money bill is set for Wednesday.

A majority of Democrats on the Appropriations Committee supported the extra funds which Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., called "an invitation to a tax increase."

The President attacked restoration of budget cuts by Congress last week, and the Budget Bureau estimated as much as $2.8 billion may be tacked onto the budget by Congress.

Deliberate Cut

Some congressmen have said Johnson deliberately cut such popular programs as lunches and schools so he could blame Congress for voting the extra funds. The Democrats have better than 2-1 majorities in both houses.

The House votes on another big money measure Tuesday. It is a $4.9 billion space authorization.

Other bills on the calendar for the week include an administration proposal to reduce appropriations $4.2 billion by selling government-held loans to private interests and a controversial labor measure dealing with picketing.

The bill would permit building trades unions to picket on a construction site. Picketing of one

Election Drama

Primaries in Six States Tuesday; Mrs. Wallace Faces 9 Candidates

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK
Associated Press Writer

The 1966 elections drama begins Tuesday with primaries in six states, and the opening scene is dominated by a figure who isn't officially in the cast — Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama.

Wallace is barred from running for re-election but his wife, Lurleen, is seeking to turn aside anyone else at the statehouse door. She is one of 10 candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor.

In addition to Alabama, states with primaries Tuesday are Florida, Indiana, New Mexico, Ohio and Oklahoma.

Taft Makes Try

Governorships are up in all the states except Indiana. Two of the six — Alabama and Oklahoma — have contests over nominations for the Senate.

All the states are making nominations for congressional seats.

But outside of Alabama, there appears little possibility of any drama of national significance.

In Ohio, Robert Taft Jr., son of the late former Republican Senate leader and grandson of President William Howard Taft, is trying for a political comeback by seeking a GOP nomination for Congress.

He has opposition in the primary from William E. Flax, a Cincinnati attorney and political novice. But political analysts expect Taft will have no difficulty in defeating Flax.

Burns Favored

Taft, 49, served one term in Congress but was defeated two years ago when he tried to oust

Democratic Sen. Stephen M. Young from the Senate. The House seat that Taft would like to have back now is held by Democrat John J. Gilligan who has no primary opposition.

Democratic Gov. Haydon Burns of Florida has primary opposition from two men he defeated two years ago — Mayor Robert King High of Miami and Scott Kelly, a former state senator from Lakeland.

A fourth candidate, Sam Fior, publishes a political news letter.

Burns is the favorite, but a hard struggle may force a runoff primary May 24. High was runner-up to Burns two years ago.

10 Alabama Contenders

In Alabama, Mrs. Wallace, a 39-year-old blonde, generally is expected to top the field of 10 contenders in Tuesday's voting.

The big questions are whether she can get a majority of all the votes and who will be runner-up. If no one gets a majority, the top two candidates will be a runoff May 31.

The other contenders are former Govs. James E. Folsom and John Patterson, former Rep. Carl Elliott, State Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers, State Sen. Bob Gilchrist, Agriculture Commissioner A. W. Todd, Charles Woods, Sherman Powell and Eunice I. Gore.

Tuesday's voting is the first preliminary balloting before next fall's general election when 435 House members, to sit during the last two years of President Johnson's present term, will be elected. Thirty-five governors and 35 senators also are to be elected in the fall.

It will be the first important voting in the South since extensive federal efforts under the new voting rights law in behalf of Negro voting rights.

The Justice Department plans to have 31 federal offices open, eligible voters.

Secretary of Commerce

Does Not See Need For Tax Hike Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor assured the U.S. Chamber of Commerce today he sees no need for an anti-inflationary tax increase now.

Connor told the opening session of the chamber's 54th annual meeting that the economic signs are not cause for "undue alarm, any more than they are cause for complacency."

"I think they indicate that we must be especially watchful and ready to act if necessary, but they do not in my opinion call for drastic measures on an emergency basis at this time," he said in an address prepared for 4,500 delegates and guests.

Backed LBJ's Plea

Connor backed President Johnson's plea that business slow its plant expansion by deferring less-essential projects "until we are through this period when excessive pressures must be avoided."

Postponed outlays, the secretary said, "could be reactivated next year or later on at a time when they would be needed to maintain adequate economic growth."

"We hope that after the middle of this year we will be able to level off our defense spending and thus help to slow down total demand," he added.

The secretary thus took much the same position as that of the chamber's president-elect, M. A. Wright, whose election was announced Sunday, told reporters he opposes a tax increase.

Wright said businessmen have in Alabama on election day to receive and investigate any complaints of voter intimidation.

Louis Martin of the Democratic National Committee staff gave the committee an estimate recently that 2.3 million Negroes are registered in 11 Southern states. This was described as nearly 50 per cent of those eligible. Registration by Negroes is up sharply in Alabama from two years ago. They now number about one-fourth of the eligible voters.

done well in holding prices down and have added so enormously to productive capacity that an enlarged outpouring of goods may diminish scarcities and price pressures.

"It's my hope that within six months or so we will find the situation righting itself, with the help of the voluntary restraints and the monetary measures taken," Wright said. "I believe we will find the inflation problem lessening."

An Oklahoman, he will succeed Robert P. Gerholz, Flint, Mich., builder, as president of the chamber Wednesday, the final day of the convention.

Disassembled Gun Misfires, Kills Youth

MARINETTE (AP) — A gun, taken apart after it jammed during a hunting trip, somehow discharged, fatally wounding Thomas Miller Jr., 15, Marinette County authorities said.

Miller had been hunting with two friends Saturday. One them tried to shoot a hawk but the rifle jammed.

The friends got back in their car and the balky weapon was broken down and placed on the back seat.

It fired as the youths drove off, the Sheriff's Office said. The bullet ripped through the front seat and struck Miller below the arm. He was dead on arrival at a Marinette hospital.

Medical technicians in Sioux Falls, S.D., meanwhile studied blood samples in an attempt to determine how the oxygen loss has affected Piantanida's brain and other organs.

The balloon was launched Sunday morning at Sioux Falls, 65 miles west of this southwestern Minnesota city. It was May Day, and the daredevil from New Jersey wanted to top the free-fall record of 85,523 feet now held by a Russian, Eugene Andreev.

Piantanida, 33, of Brick Town, N.J., was hospitalized here overnight and early today was flown to Minneapolis for treatment in an oxygen pressure chamber.

He lost consciousness because of a change in atmospheric pressure. He wore a pressurized flight suit and helmet, but the pressure was lost when a pneumatic seal around the helmet face plate apparently failed.

New Leaders Emerge in 3 Bowl-O-Rama Divisions

BY JIM HARP Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Wholesale changes were recorded in the Post-Crescent Bowl-O-Rama Sunday, as new leaders took over in three of four divisions and runnerup spots changed in a pair of classes.

Seeing the most changes was Women's Class A where the top six spots had switched hands by the conclusion of weekend action Sunday night. Better than 400 keggers went to the lanes Saturday and Sunday.

Only Tony Staniak, Menasha, retained his lead — in men's Class B. New leaders are Lyle A. Tatro, Neenah, Class A; Ellen Lee, Winneconne, Class A; and Betty Kolosso, Appleton, women's Class B.

Close To Triple

As Ellen Lee took over the Class A lead for women, she was followed by five others who had a booming high game of 206 in her third game. Marion, over the lead in women's Class B as she rallied from a low total over sixth with 728. Helen Drall, Neenah, rounded out the top 10 with a 714 count.

Tatro displayed some of the best sharp-shooting of the tournament as he grabbed the Class A lead for men. He averaged 204 over the four-game route, and carried 80 pins handicap for an 886 total. Lyle A. Tatro, Neenah, worked up to a 226, followed with a 183 and came on with an 882 total; Bob Kraus, strong in the final line for a 222. Menasha, placed eighth with 836; Jerome Johnson, Appleton, took over ninth with an 836 and Jack Habewitz, Neenah, moved to 10th with 835.

Staniak's 804 and Vitus Vande Wetering's 855 held up for the first two spots in Class B. Clyde Meyer, Neenah, took over third place with an 836 to pass Floyd Kosh, moved into fourth place; Cliff Smith, Clintonville, 830; Jerome Johnson, Appleton, 836; and Jack Habewitz, Neenah, moved to 10th with 835.

Mays Injured Slightly, but Giants Decision Cards, 2-0

Pirates' Veale Hurls 4-Hit Shutout; Dodgers Win Behind Sutton, 3-0

By MURRAY CHASS Associated Press Sports Writer

It was a weak week for Willie Mays. Everyone waited for him to hit his 512th home run. Willie Mays was having trouble hitting anything.

Mays added to his recent problems Sunday by suffering a bruised left knee in San Francisco's 2-0 victory over St. Louis.

The injury, suffered in a first base collision with the Cardinals' George Kernek, forced Mays from the game in the fourth inning, marking the third time in the past week that he left a game before it was over.

Drastic Reduction

A cold and an upset stomach sent Mays home early last Tuesday and Wednesday and kept him out of the line-up altogether Thursday. Contributing to his ills was a bruised right hand which hampered his swing and caused him to throw his bat a couple of times.

The result has been a drastic reduction in his hitting output. When he hit his 511th homer, and tied Mel Ott's National League career record last Sunday, it gave Mays six homers in the Giants' first 12 games.

But six games later Mays not only failed to break the record, he also has seen his batting average drop 62 points from .348 to .286.

He has managed only two hits in 17 at bats during that time while failing to drive in a run and getting the ball out of the infield only five times.

Mays, who will be 35 this Friday, took a day off today as the Giants played an exhibition game. He expected to return to the line-up Tuesday.

Bruise Not Serious

San Francisco trainer Leo Hughes described the bruise he suffered Sunday as painful but not serious.

The collision with Kernek came when he raced to first on a grounder in the fourth inning. As the first baseman reached

Bone Fracture Discovered Graustark Out of Derby

By ORLO ROBERTSON LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—With Graustark sidelined by a broken bone, Saturday's running of the $125,000-added Kentucky Derby shaped up today as a wide-open scramble with at least four colts vying for the favorite's role.

There are about 20 3-year-olds either at Churchill Downs or en route who can be listed as possible starters in the 1 1/4-mile race. However, the list may be trimmed to 14 or even 12 by the weather. Tuesday's Derby Trial and owners' unwillingness to part with the $1,500 necessary to get a horse into the starting line-up.

Entries for the first of the Triple Crown series, which also includes the Preakness and Belmont Stakes, will be made Thursday morning. Post time Saturday is 5:45 p.m. EDT.

Graustark was taken out of the race Sunday by Trainer Lloyd Gentry when X-rays showed the bone of Ribot had a fractured bone just above the hoof of his left foreleg.

Graustark's failure to make the Big One also did away with any possibility of a clash between the two most talked of horses of 1965.

Wins Juvenile Title

Buckpasser, the other, is conquering from a quarter-crank. He took the Flamingo this year following a 2-year-old campaign which carried him to the juvenile title.

Graustark was unbeaten in his first seven races, three last year, but was beaten by Abe's Hope in the Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland last Thursday.

The Derby fitter Filbert lost no time going to work on the remainder of the field. They came up with Abe's Hope, owned by John Bartlett and Robert Byfield of Chicago, as the probable 5-2 choice.

Abe's Hope has not run a bad race this year. The Illinois-bred son of Better Bee had Buckpasser beaten in the Flamingo only to lose in the final stride. He finished first in the Florida Derby but was disqualified and placed fourth.

Bill Shoemaker, winner of three Derbies, will ride Abe's Hope—a factor that figures to draw financial support from the usual crowd of more than 100,000.

Michael Ford's Kauai King, rated by Gentry as good enough to beat Buckpasser, is the probable second choice at 3-1. Gentry trained the son of Native Dancer last year. He wound up his Derby prep with a victory in Bowie's Governor's Gold Cup.

Right behind Kauai King in the calculations come Reginald Webster's Amberoid, winner of the Wood Memorial, and Mrs. H.C. Phipps' Stupendous.

Chargers' Ladd And Faison Now Free Agents

Linemen Have at Least 5 Choices For 1966 Season

By RON ROACH SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — ERNIE LADD and Earl Faison, two of the American Football League's top defensive players, became free agents Sunday and the stalemate continued over who will have their 1966 services.

Ladd and Faison played out their options with the San Diego Chargers, refusing 1965 contracts because they wanted more money; wanted a share in the big bonuses given rookies.

The 6 foot 9, 315-pound Ladd and 6-5, 270-pound Faison were all-AFL and ended for the Chargers last year. Signed in 1961, they were half of a defensive line that helped establish AFL records in nearly all defensive aspects of the game in 1965.

San Diego General Manager Coach Sid Gillman's only comment Sunday was that he had none.

But a Charger spokesman said there's more than money behind Gillman's problem.

"Sid feels everybody in football is looking down his neck. He believes that if Ladd and Faison are given big bonuses to sign, other players will follow suit and it will hurt the game," the spokesman said.

By playing out their options and taking automatic 10 per

Chisox' Buford Bloops Double For Only Safety; Indians Cop, 1-0

By MIKE RATHET pushed only three previous times in major league history, They're calling him Sudden by Lon Warneke when he was Sam McDowell, but Sensational Sam would seem to be more appropriate for a pitcher who has collected as many hits in Ford of the New York Yankees.

Struck Out 10

McDowell also lived up to his Sudden label, applied because of his blazing speed, by striking out 10 and bringing his major league-leading total to 49. The undefeated southpaw also became the first American League to win four games and lowered his earned run average to a sparkling 1.54.

The victory was the 11th in 12 games this season for the Indians, who started off by winning their first 10 games. The 10-game winning streak was matched Sunday by the Baltimore Orioles, who lifted their one-hitter, allowing only a bloop error to lead to 12-1 by defeating Detroit 4-1.

The other AL teams played the doubleheaders and all split. Minnesota lost to Washington 5-3, then pulled out of its tailspin

Roseboro Heaps Praise On Youthful Dodger Pitcher, Don Sutton

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Some third-inning runs off loser Milt of the Los Angeles Dodgers are Pappas, 0-2, reserving judgment on Don Sutton until the 21-year-old rookie right-hander pitches a second time against all their National League rivals.

But catcher John Roseboro has already made up his mind. "The way this kid's going, he's going to be the best pitcher on this staff," says Roseboro, who also is familiar with the work of Sandy Koufax, Don Drysdale and Claude Osteen.

Roseboro gave his opinion before Sutton blanked Cincinnati 3-0 Sunday with run-inning help from reliever Ron Perranoski. It was the Molero, Fla., youngster's third victory in five decisions and he lowered his earned run average to 1.85.

"It's really a pleasure to catch this kid," said Roseboro.

Has Four Pitches

"A pitcher has to be a winner when he has four pitches and can get all of them over the plate," Roseboro referred to Sutton's fast ball, curve, slider and change-up.

Even the Reds, held to five hits, praised Sutton.

"He's going to win an awful lot of games," said Deron Johnson, 1965 league leader in runs batted in. "He's got every pitch and he knows what he's doing."

"He's like Juan Marichal," said the Reds' Tommy Helms.

"When he's behind in the count and you're looking for a fast ball, he throws you a curve."

Sutton also has managed at least one hit in his five games for a batting average of .438—seven for 16 Sunday, his bunt single drove in the first of three

Loyalty Day Honored With 2 1/2-Mile Parade

MERRILL (AP) — A cross-town pageant of pulchritude and patriotism climaxed State Loyalty Day Sunday.

Even the sun shone benignly on the parade of 65 units that wound for 2 1/2 miles through the streets of Merrill before an estimated 15,000 persons.

Miss Wisconsin, blonde Shar-ong Singstock of Oshkosh, and Merrill's own Loyalty Day Queen, brunette Carol Meunier, rode by in open convertibles.

Loyalty Day, held here for the first time, is sponsored annually by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

National officials of the VFW participated, along with drill teams, marching bands and floats from communities in the area, including Wisconsin Rapids, Medford, Antigo, Colby, Adams-Friendship and Wausau.

The weekend festivities began with a banquet attended by 250 persons Saturday night.

They will have to overhaul education and training programs for managerial jobs. They will have to develop new job classifications, such as "executive assistant" and "sub-executive" for younger workers.

Colleges and universities will have to expand to an unprecedented extent their executive training courses, and make the training more responsive to the real needs of business.

Companies and labor unions will have to revise their retirement policies to encourage older executives to continue working. This will mean much more re-education and re-training of executives throughout their working lives.

Companies also will have to make big changes in the way they use the talents of their increasingly scarce mature executives and computers will have to take on a dizzying variety of non-decision jobs to relieve corporation bottlenecks.

Our country's attitudes toward women executives will have to be transformed and this includes the attitudes not only of businessmen but also of working women themselves. The challenge to women will be to get the education and training to fill executive jobs during the decades after their children have grown.

In brief, this crucially important population quirk will put immense pressure on all Americans to obtain more and better education and training. The alternative a serious cutback in the economic growth of the nation is unthinkable.

Little Chute 'Dutchman' Prospers in Green Lake

John Van Rhyn Fooled 'Wisecracs,' Built Thriving Steak House From Modest Tavern

GREEN LAKE — The Fox Valley's loss was Green Lake's gain when John Van Rhyn, back in late 1950, saw an ad in the Post-Crescent for a business for sale in Green Lake and investigated it.

At the time, he hardly knew where Green Lake was, but he soon learned investigated the business and bought it in December, 1950.

The Green Lake wisecracs gave him six months to go broke when he took over the former Max Ladwig property January 1, 1951. But they underestimated the imagination and perseverance Van Rhyn put into it.

From a single large room with a bar and a small addition serving lunches, Van Rhyn has enlarged and remodeled until he has a staff of 25 and a steak house known throughout the area.

He was elected to the board of education and has taken an active role in city politics. He has served as member of the board of directors, and for two years as president of the Green Lake Development Association and for a year on the board of directors of the Green Lake Property Owners Association.

What to look for in buying additional protection to Medicare

by Leo E. Suycott

President, The Wisconsin Blue Cross Plan.

As you know, many new programs are being offered to add to the benefits provided by Medicare. However, there is much confusion, doubt and worry as to which is the best plan to buy. By their nature, health protection plans are somewhat complex and difficult to compare. In the hope of clarifying the important issues that enter into choosing the best buy, we offer these guidelines. We trust they will help you make a sound decision.

check for waiting periods

One company states that benefits for pre-existing conditions are payable if no treatment is required during the first six months of the contract. Thus, it would seem if treatment is required during the first six months for an ailment that existed when application was made, this clause would permanently exclude any payment for that ailment under the contract. Chronic conditions existing on the effective date of the policy such as arthritis, heart disease, diabetes, and many others would apparently never qualify for benefits if treatment was received during the first six months — unless complete cure were effected first.

Another company widely advertising to provide $100.00 per week in addition to Medicare when hospitalized has a two-year waiting period before a pre-existing condition would be covered. Remember, many pre-existing conditions, such as arthritis, are chronic conditions. Thus, if hospitalized for an existing ailment, it would be two years before benefits would be payable.

By contrast, Blue Cross • Surgical Care Blue Shield's Medicare-Extended protection has only a six-month waiting period for pre-existing conditions for new members. New conditions are covered immediately. (For members presently enrolled in Blue Cross • Surgical Care Blue Shield, there is NO waiting period.) After six months have expired, benefits are payable for admissions and service for pre-existing and chronic conditions.

dollars vs. service

Some companies are offering $75 — $100 — $150 per week or month to supplement Medicare.

The cost of this kind of program should be carefully weighed. For much less cost, the service benefits of Blue Cross • Surgical Care Blue Shield Medicare-Extended would be far more beneficial. For a 30-day period in the hospital, medical and hospital bills can add up to $1500 or $3000, and in unusual cases even more. Limited indemnity payments simply can't do the same job!

Blue Cross • Surgical Care Blue Shield Medicare-Extended offers a broad range of benefits filling in most of the gaps, plus adding another 30 days of hospital benefits to Medicare.

weigh the value

Know something about the company concerned. Buy from a well known company having a good record of service in Wisconsin. Check the company for how many Wisconsin people they serve and their past record of benefit payments.

One company advertising to provide dollars per month had a record in Wisconsin of returning in benefits less than 50¢* of every dollar received.

Blue Cross • Surgical Care Blue Shield's combined record for the same period was over 90¢* returned in benefits.

(*From State of Wisconsin Department of Insurance 1965 Annual Report)

don't be misled!

Don't be misled by tempting offers or promises. When in doubt ask pointed questions.

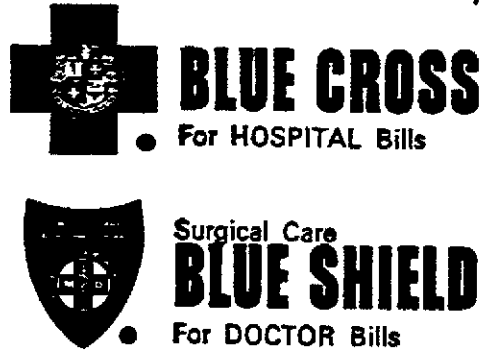

If you have a question, call, write or come in and we'll be pleased to discuss it with you frankly and objectively.

Don't be misled by offers of coverage at a reduced premium for the first month — it's the month-after-month cost compared to the protection offered that is important.

IMPORTANT!

U. S. Official Says S. Viet Nam Only Chaos and Struggle

U. S. Presence Holds Country
Together, High Diplomat Claims

By ANDREW BOROWIEC
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — "There is no Viet Nam south of the 17th Parallel," said the highly placed Western diplomat. "There is only chaos, despair and unending struggle." The diplomat's grim appraisal

Pope Paul VI, Lodge Meet For 40 Minutes

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI discussed the Viet Nam crisis today in a 40-minute meeting with Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to Saigon.

The Pope and the ambassador conferred in the privacy of the library in the pontiff's apartment. Not even interpreters were present. They spoke in French.

The audience was unusually long, underlining the importance of the meeting. Lodge arrived in Rome three days ago on his way to Washington for consultations.

The audience lasted five minutes less than the 45-minute audience in which Pope Paul and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko discussed peace problems just a week ago.

Though U.S. Embassy officials called Lodge's appearance in Rome a private stopover to break his long flight from Saigon to America, everything about the audience indicated an important political discussion. He flies on to Washington Tuesday.

of the situation in South Viet Nam clashed with the official U.S. line but coincided with the views of many other diplomats and observers.

"South Viet Nam today is not a country," he said. "It is a group of feuding religious groups, of defiant warlords, of generals refusing to obey the orders of Saigon, of entire areas under Communist control, of political parties and groupings none of which can exercise a determining influence."

U.S. Presence
"Only the presence of Americans holds it together."

"The United States must remain here. How long and for how long, I don't know. But its departure from here would mean an immediate disaster."

American planners are hopeful that South Viet Nam can be forged politically in elections promised this summer. Most other diplomats and observers believe that elections are not possible in this nation at war — and that a valid vote could not result.

The country has more than 70 political parties, none of them large enough to take a determined lead.

Strong Force
The Buddhists, often described as one of the strongest political forces, are divided into three main quarreling factions. The Hoa Hoa and Cao Dai religious sects also demand influence, but they are limited to two small regions of the country without impact on the rest. A simmering revolt of the Montagnard tribesmen openly defies the central government.

The Catholics, about 15 percent of Viet Nam's 15 million people, are ready to defend their rights.

D. E. Danielson Killed in Crash Near Reedsville

Served as Director
Of Vocational School
In Neenah Since '55

Dan E. Danielson, 59, 1004 Main St., Neenah, was killed in a two-car accident west of Reedsville about 3:30 p.m. Sunday, which brought the state highway death toll to 266, seven ahead of last year on this date.

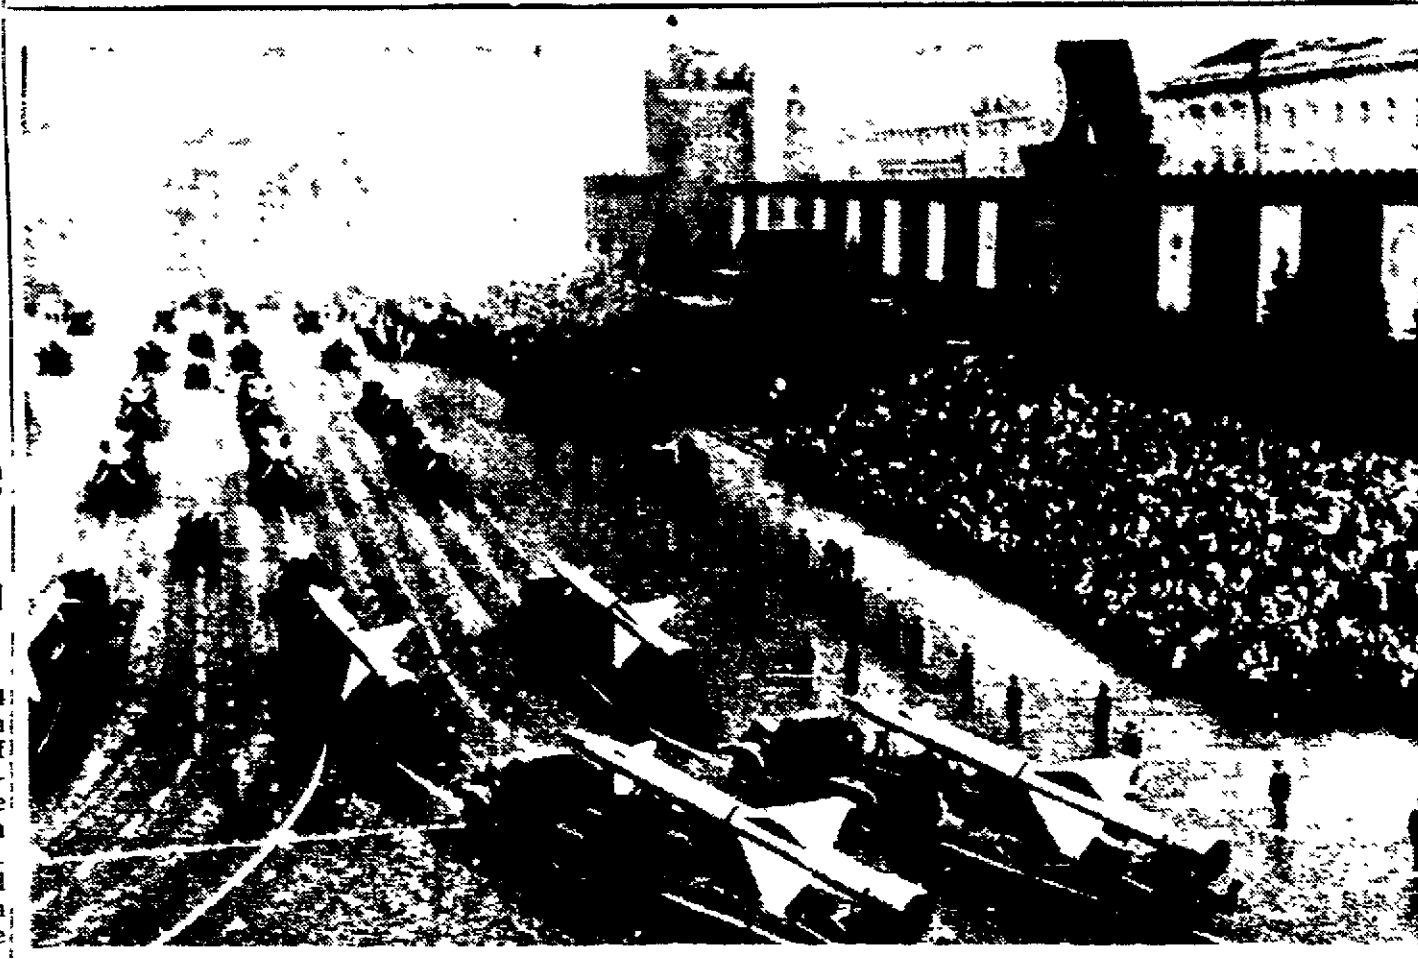

Manitowoc County police said Danielson was traveling west on U.S. 10 followed by a vehicle driven by Richard T. Isaacson, 18, route 2, Reedsville. Isaacson swerved to avoid an accident, struck the left rear end of the Danielson vehicle causing it to run into a ditch where it rolled over, police said. The Isaacson vehicle continued on into a field where it stopped without appreciable damage.

Police said Danielson was taken to Holy Name Hospital, Manitowoc, where he died about two hours later.

Danielson, who succeeded Carl Christensen as director of the Neenah Vocational School in 1955, was born in Manitowoc.

Communist Launch Area Demolished

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U. S. Navy fighter-bombers demolished another antiaircraft missile site near the North Vietnamese city of Vinh, but in the South the lull in the ground war extended into a third week, the U.S. command reported today.

American planes flew more than 300 sorties against suspected Communist targets in South Viet Nam. For the second day in a row B52s from Guam pounded Viet Cong troop areas near the Cambodian border.

Although weather curtailed air missions over the Communist North, A4 Skyhawks and F8 Crusaders from the carrier Hancock saturated the missile site 34 miles northeast of Vinh, on the North Vietnamese coast, with Bullpup air-to-surface missiles and 500- and 600-pound bombs. A spokesman said they destroyed everything within a 400-foot-square area, including two Soviet-built missile launchers.

U.S. spokesmen reported the loss of two more planes over North Viet Nam, raising the total shot down there to 227, but the pilots of both were rescued by helicopters. Four U.S. planes were lost over the North Friday.

Commenting on the lull in the ground war, the spokesman declared: "We have hurt these people a great deal in recent months. We're sure they are still pouring people in here from North Viet Nam at the rate of 5,500 a month. I don't believe they have supplies for support."

The infiltration figure, however, represents an increase of 1,000 men a month over Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's estimate to the Senate two months ago.

Across the 17th Parallel frontier, a U. S. helicopter picked up a downed U. S. airman at dawn after he had eluded Communist pursuers through the night in the mountains of North Viet Nam near the Laotian border.

Communist gunners beat off three attempts Sunday afternoon to rescue Air Force Capt. James M. Ingalls of Palo Alto, Calif. He was the 48th pilot brought out of the Communist North this year.

New agitation and terrorism followed an anti-American May Day demonstration in Saigon.

Racine Bankers Foil Theft

RACINE (AP)—It's the busy first day of the month at the Elmwood Bank today and Vice President Lawrence Jansen, 32, has his work cut out for him.

He won't have time to play sleuth.

Neither will Assistant Cashier Charles Meyer, 34.

"I hope it's business as usual," said Jansen, who teamed with Meyer Sunday to foil what police said was an attempt to fish envelopes out of the bank's night depository. "I don't have the time to be pestered."

Jansen's wary eye and Meyer's shotgun led to the arrest Sunday of a pair identified as Shawn Patrick O'Kelly, 33, of River Grove, Ill., and Mrs. Mildred Nichols, 25, of Chicago.

Spotted Plastic
Jansen stopped off at the bank after church and spotted a large piece of plastic blocking the night depository chute. He and other bankers in Wisconsin had gone out I had a little fear that maybe I shouldn't have done it. I didn't want the man to get hurt."

Meyer rushed out the back door and pointed the shotgun. "Get away from that box! he shouted.

"I'm just going to make a deposit," the man replied, Meyer recalled.

"You don't make a deposit with a wire," Meyer said he answered.

Notified Police
A woman was sitting in the car and Meyer ordered her out. He directed both the woman and the man against the wall. Meanwhile, Jansen, seeing that Meyer had the situation under control, notified police.

Within five minutes police arrived to take over.

Lleras Wins In Colombia

Opponent Shows
Surprising Might,
Polls 30 Per Cent

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — The Colombian presidential election went off as expected Sunday with Sen. Carlos Lleras Restrepo voted in by a large margin.

Lleras' little known opponent, attorney Jose Jaramillo Giraldo, showed surprising strength. With more than 60 per cent of the ballots counted, he drew more than 30 per cent of the vote, 563,168 to 1,327,320 for Lleras.

In a victory statement, Lleras said: "I have received overwhelming support for my program for the social transformation of Colombia."

Foreign Policy
"A keystone of my administration's foreign policy will be our friendship with the United States," he said. But he added that this "does not exclude cordial dissensions and friendly discussions whenever it is necessary."

Obviously galled by the large vote polled by Jaramillo, he accused a splinter Conservative group formed by followers of the late President Laureano Gomez of throwing their support to his opponent.

May Day Follows Usual Red Pattern

Call for Viet Nam Peace; No
New Russian Weapons Shown

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
May Day demonstrations around the world followed the usual pattern Sunday with calls for peace in Viet Nam sounding at most of them.

The Russians showed no new military hardware at their Moscow parade. Mao Tze-tung did not appear in Peking. And 7,000 South Vietnamese staged an anti-American demonstration in front of the U. S. Embassy in Saigon.

Reviewing a military parade in Moscow's Red Square, Soviet Defense Minister Rodion Y. Malinovsky accused the United States of waging "a foul bandit war against the heroic Vietnamese people."

Back Viet Nam
"Together with the other Socialist countries," Malinovsky said, "we support our Vietnamese brothers and are rendering them all possible assistance."

Other Soviet leaders standing atop Lenin's Tomb in a cold rain reviewed the parade, which included floats denouncing the

VFW Head Critical of Card Burners

MILFORD, Conn. (AP) — "It is totally unthinkable that we should ever allow our judgment or patriotism to be destroyed by any noisy un-American minority," the commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars said Sunday.

"We are hearing that minority today," said Andy Borg of Superior, Wis. "But we shall not be influenced by the pseudo-intellectuals who have become mesmerized by the rattling of their own shallow opinions."

Loyalty Day
Borg's remarks were made in a speech for a dinner that was part of Loyalty Day activities here.

He said authorities should deal firmly with the would-be U. S. Embassy in Saigon draft dodgers and card burners where Vietnamese troops faced ers and fearful young men who 7,000 farmers, dockworkers and would rather crawl at the feet of Communist masters than fight erect as Americans."

Mao Mystery Spurs Speculation On Possible Changes in Red China

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — Deepening mystery over the fate of Mao Tze-tung spurred speculation among U.S. officials today about a possible power shift in Red China with worldwide repercussions.

The belief that the Chinese Communist leadership may be approaching a transition period is one of several reasons for

be a prime cause of their determination to hold the door open to some sort of Soviet-Chinese reconciliation.

The Chinese refused to attend a recent Communist Party meeting in Moscow but the Soviets nevertheless left the way clear for some later improvement in relations.

Regarded as Key
Mao's situation is regarded here as the key to what is likely to happen in Peking in the next few weeks or months. But it is a key which the outside world, reportedly including Soviet as well as American experts on Chinese Communist affairs, does not presently understand.

Mao, 72, last made a public appearance in November when he received a delegation from Cambodia. His absence from subsequent public ceremonies did not at first arouse interest here and in other world capitals, since it has been his pattern to drop from sight for two or three months at a time.

But when he failed to reappear in Peking as winter ended, U.S. experts began to speculate that he was ill. The belief that he has suffered a serious illness or perhaps undergone a major operation is now the dominant view in official Washington circles. He did not appear at Sunday's May Day celebration.

Deifying Mao
Another cause of the belief here that Mao is or has been seriously ill is the fact that the Chinese press has been engaged for more than a month now in virtually deifying him.

The view that Chinese leaders who carry on after Mao inevitably will do things differently is widely held among U.S. experts on China. They do not, however,

Heart Victims Probably Were Bottle Babies

Research Ties Hard
Arteries With Earliest
Feedings in Infancy

LONDON (AP) — People who die young from heart disease probably were bottle-fed babies, says a leading British pathologist.

Dr. G.R. Osborne reached the conclusion from looking at the coronary arteries of 1,000 persons brought to him for post-mortems.

Their ages ranged from newborn to 45. Four hundred were victims of road accidents and suicide. The rest died of natural causes, including heart disease.

Dr. Osborne told the Royal College of Physicians in a lecture that what he saw in his microscope prompted him to believe that a dangerous hardening of the arteries can begin in infancy and early adolescence, and that by 15 years the pattern for life is set.

If you can reach 15 with healthy heart arteries, said Dr. Osborne, you are unlikely to die with heart disease even if you are overweight, smoke heavily and lead a stressful and sedentary existence.

The British Heart Foundation is so impressed with Dr. Osborne's studies that it has given him a grant for further research.

Dr. Osborne started his probe after he had examined four teen-age boys killed in an auto accident.

"What I saw was unbelievable. Two had the kind of coronary hardening one associates with a fatal heart attack, yet they were slim and athletic," he said.

This prompted him to examine microscopically the coronary arteries of all young people sent to him for post-mortems.

Have in Common
He then tried to determine what those with badly diseased coronaries — ones that might have killed them while they were still young — had in common.

Dr. Osborne said the pattern that eventually emerged was that heart disease in teen-agers, bad enough to cause fatal coronary attacks in their 30s or 40s, was far more prevalent among those who had never been breast-fed.

He said he believed the premature hardening of arteries was caused by gastric attacks due to bottle feeding. Breast-fed babies seldom have these troubles, Dr. Osborne added.

He claimed that disturbances from the gastric attacks can cause the blood to flow abnormally, setting up turbulence at heart artery junctions.

"I believe it is this turbulence that starts the process of hardening which may not show up for 30 or 40 years, Dr. Osborne added.

Funds Assigned to Improving County Trunks, Local Streets

Checks totaling $1,174,328 have been sent to Calumet, Outagamie, Winnebago, and Waupaca Counties and the cities, villages and towns within the four county area by the State Highway Commission.

The funds represent advance payment of part of the 1966 supplementary highway aids under statutory allotment for improvements to county trunk highways and local public roads and streets.

The balance will be paid after the close of the fiscal year, ending June 30. The prepayment amounts are based on last year's supplemental aids distributed from the state highway fund and equal 50 per cent of the 1965 total.

Insurance Body Resists Stand on Rate Exposure

Companies Expected to Oppose Proposed Law Requiring Public Rate Applications

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The Legislative Council's special committee on state insurance law revision Thursday refused to take a stand on a bill requiring the state insurance department to make public all insurance company applications for rate increases.

The bill, drafted by the state insurance department at the request of its commissioner, former Marinette assemblyman Robert Haase, is expected to be strongly opposed by many insurance companies operating in Wisconsin.

The study committee, conducting a three year investigation of insurance regulatory practices and laws, said that a stand on full disclosure would be "premature."

Existing Law

Under existing law, the information contained in a company's request to increase rates becomes public at the time of a rate increase — if one is granted. Then, public hearings, reviewing such information and the actions of the insurance commissioner, can be held if requested by the public. If a rate increase is refused, the applicant company may also request a public hearing.

Company spokesmen Thursday contended that such disclosure would allow competing insurance firms to gain financial information on business practices without incurring the accounting costs, would encourage policy holders to switch firms just before rate increases, and has not proven practical in other states where attempted.

States that have made such changes in insurance laws "have found themselves conducting circes, not hearings," according to Kirby Hendee, Stevens Point. Hendee spoke on behalf of his employers, the Sentry Insurance Company of Stevens Point, and the member companies of the Wisconsin Insurance Alliance.

Issues Warning

"You will make a serious mistake by pulling out one vital piece of the law and changing it at this time, without really knowing what it is going to do to the rest of the law," Hendee warned the study committee.

Such action would tend to depress insurance rates due to publicity in the rate-making process, Hendee continued "To the extent that the commissioner is susceptible to those pressures, the rates will be held down," whether justifiable or not, he said.

Lloyd J. Yaudes, executive director of the Wisconsin Insurance Alliance, said that the insurance commissioner "is a technician reviewing technical problems," and that it is the commissioner's responsibility to protect the public interest in reviewing every application for rate increases.

The committee also voted to request the Legislative Council to introduce an amendment to existing insurance statutes in the May session of the legislature. The amendment was prepared by Prof. Spencer L. Kumball, staff researcher for the committee and insurance law expert.

The proposed amendment would require all companies issuing driver's protection to pay when their customers are involved in accidents with drivers who are insured by insolvent firms that cannot pay claims.

Boardings at the county airport totaled 944, compared with the previous mark of 890 set by Air Wisconsin in March and the record high of 704 set by North Central Airlines early in 1965 before it discontinued service to the Fox Cities Northbound passengers from Chicago to the Outagamie airport came to 855, compared with the previous high of 821.

Occasional Opera Group Receives Belated Valentine From Reviewer

BY JAMES AUER
Post-Crescent Sunday Editor

The Occasional Opera Group made only one mistake when it unveiled its production of Gian-Carlo Menotti's "The Telephone" and "The Old Maid and the Thief" last week at the Lawrence University Music-Drama Center.

By opening this delectable (if not dynamic) duo of comic operas on April 23, instead of Feb. 14, the Fox Cities' own opera company made it impossible — by some 73 days — for a reviewer to send a valentine to the cast, director, crew and sponsoring Kings Daughters circles.

However, the laughter and applause that greeted the initial performance must have been valentine enough for those workers, behind the stage lights and in front of them, who spent so many weeks confecting a delectable evening of harmony and hilarity.

The double bill concluded its three-night run Saturday in the center's experimental theater.

The curtain-raiser (if a production in a three-sided arena may be so described) was "The Telephone," or "L'Amour a Trois," featuring the husband-and-wife team of Sandra and Gavin Young. Mrs. Young, seen several years ago in the group's first enterprise, Mozart's "Abduction from the Harem," played Lucy, whose addition to the telephone seemed fated to defeat the efforts of her admirer, Ben, to propose.

The third character in this neo-baroque triangle was the telephone itself, described by Ben as a "two-headed monster who comes unasked and devours my day."

Not only did the Trimline tormentor bring constant interruptions — wrong numbers, accusations of perfidy, gossip and reports of a quarrel — but the cord of the odious instrument became characteristically entangled with itself on opening night, causing yet another complication with which the ever-resourceful Lucy had to cope.

Singer-Actress

Mrs. Young, a skilled actress as well as singer, blended both accomplishments in her non-stop role. Young, seen two seasons ago in the Riverside Players' "Music Man," was thoroughly likeable as the tongue-tied lover who, in the end, was saved by the Bell (System, that is).

Although the audience expressed undeniable admiration for "The Telephone," it reserved its heartiest approval for the evening's major effort, "The Old Maid and the Thief."

As gently satirical as it is lyrical (Menotti's rhyme schemes seem to demand emulation), this opera in nine scenes, though originally written for radio, gained appreciably in its translation to the arena stage.

Small Town

Two unmarried ladies — Miss Todd (Nancy Stowe) and her maid, Laetitia (Elaine Fetting) — live together in a modest house in a small American town. Into their midst, much like the muscular interloper of "Picnic," comes a self-confessed beggar, Bob (John Haugner).

YGOP Politicians Ignore Sex Plank

Viet Nam Resolution Asks That Congress be Told Victory Plans

OSHKOSH (AP)—The area of sex in politics was of no concern when the Young Republicans closed their weekend state convention Sunday after approving 18 resolutions.

Not one of the resolutions mentioned sex, a subject that received much attention from Young Democrats recently. The Democrats passed a sex plank calling for the abolition of legal restraints on sexual activities between consenting adults.

"We thought we had our own areas of concern," a Young Republican spokesman said Sunday. "We sort of left the sex field to them."

Changes Sought

The 650 delegates rapidly passed the resolutions, but spent a great deal of time on constitutional changes, including proposals to change voting procedures. Efforts to remove the Milwaukee County chairman from the state executive board and to replace the YGOP symbol, an elephant, with a five pointed red and blue star were defeated.

On Viet Nam, the YGOP asked that congress "be informed of the specific plan of victory."

War Declaration

The resolution softened a Resolution Committee recommendation that had asked for a declaration of war in Viet Nam or an immediate peaceful end to the conflict.

A spokesman said the suggestion for a war declaration was dropped because delegates "did not feel we could say who to declare war against."

The delegates spoke out sharply in a resolution against "racist and antisemitic literature" distributed at the convention Saturday night.

James R. Staples, state chairman, said the material, a newspaper, was brought to the convention by an outsider.

Most officers of the YGOP were in the middle of two year terms and not up for election. The major contest, for state college director, was won by Jon Guiles, Madison, chairman of the University of Wisconsin unit. He defeated Richard Stephens of Elm Grove, 435 to 231.

Guiles is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Roger Guiles of Oshkosh. Dr. Guiles is president of Wisconsin State University — Oshkosh.

Girl Leaves Store With 72 Birthstone Rings Valued at $144

NEENAH — A common tactic to combat shoplifting is for manufacturers to attach small items to cards for display in stores.

Friday, a junior high school girl admitted to police she had walked out of the J.C. Penny store at Fox Point Shopping Center with a full card of 72 birthstone rings.

At $2 each for the rings, the card was valued at $144. The case is in the hands of juvenile authorities.

'Friends' Observe McCarthy's Death

Senator's Courage Praised in 9th Ceremony at Appleton Graveside

Approximately 200 "Friends of Sen. Joseph McCarthy" attended a memorial service Sunday, May Day, at his graveside high on a windy bluff overlooking the Fox River in Appleton. The service was held after a motorcade arrived which originated in Milwaukee at 1 p.m. Sunday.

Sheboygan Attorney Peter Wheeler Reiss delivered the memorial address. Reiss reread the late senator with "almost singlehandedly putting the Communists and their allies, the liberals, on the defensive."

Reiss said McCarthy's "greatness was not in his saintliness" but "in his courage." "Joe would not quit in the face of unprecedented attack," Reiss said.

Circumstances Unknown

In remarking on McCarthy's death, Reiss said, "In my opinion there is some justified evidence that Joe was murdered," but he added the real circumstances of the controversial senator's death "probably will never be known."

Reiss' final remark was "If anti-Communism can't win today, then America can't win today. Rest in peace, Joe, you fought hard and deserve death's sleep."

The Rev. L. S. Brey of Milwaukee, acting chaplain of the "Friends of McCarthy," delivered the invocation and hushed assembly heard Father Brey ask for a rededication of everyone present to the ideals put forth by McCarthy for God and country in what may be "the nation's 11th hour."

The memorial service at St. Mary Cemetery ended with the singing of the national anthem.

Neenah's Tatro Totals 896 in Men's Class A

New Leaders Emerge in 3 Bowl-

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Wholesale changes were recorded in the Post-Crescent Bowl-O-Rama Sunday, as new leaders took over in three of four divisions and runnerup spots changed in a pair of classes.

Seeing the most changes was Women's Class A where the top six spots had switched hands by the conclusion of weekend action Sunday night. Better than 400 keggers went to the lanes Saturday and Sunday.

Only Tony Staniak, Menasha, retained his lead — in men's Class B. New leaders are Lee Tatro, Neenah, Class A; Ellen Lee, Winneconne, women's Class A and Betty Kolosso, Appleton, women's class B.

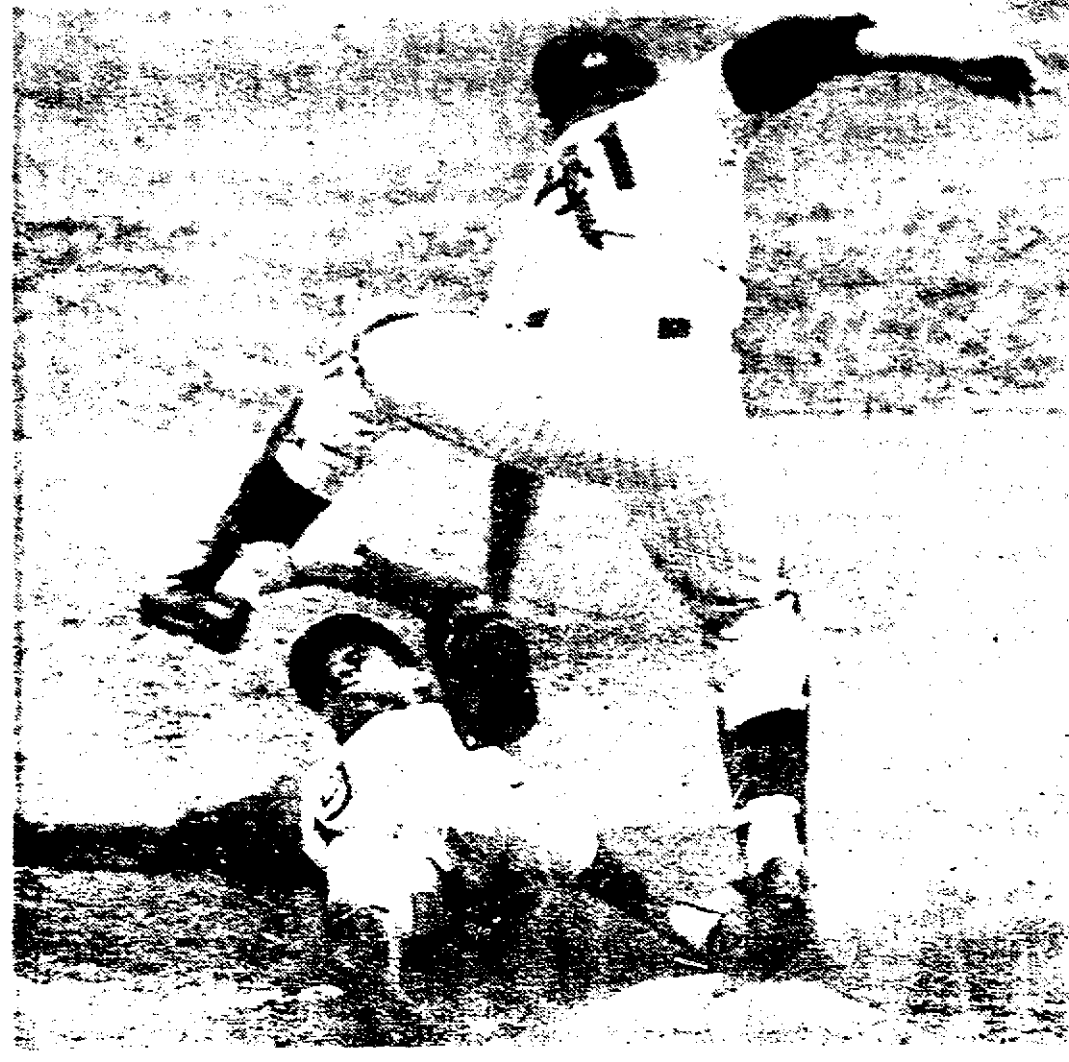

Close To Triplicate
As Ellen Lee took over the Class A lead for women, she was followed by five others who also pushed into top spots in the division. Ellen also came close to recording the first triplicate of the tournament as she rolled a 179, then had a 173 and followed with another 179. Her last game was a 154 for a 685 scratch total and 96 pins handicap for 781.

Valerie Flanagan, Appleton, climbed into second place in Class A with a 772 total. She had a booming high game of 260 in her third game. Mark over the lead in women's Class B as she rolled from a pin 763 which included a 153 game; Elsie Vacek, Maestrow, moved with a 645 scratch and 136 pins into fourth with a 766 count and handicap for a 771 total. She Joan Kolosso and Frances replaced Bonnie Brinkley, Neenah, who had a 777 Thursday.

Ruth Wirtz, Neenah, took over third place in Class B with a 735 total. Dorothy Hiltgen, Neenah, grabbed fourth with a 707. Bernice Peters, Little

Chargers' Ladd And Faison Now Free Agents

Linemen Have at Least 5 Choices For 1966 Season

By RON ROACH
SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Ernie Ladd and Earl Faison, two of the American Football League's top defensive players, became free agents Sunday and the stalemate continued over who will have their 1966 services.

Ladd and Faison played out their options with the San Diego Chargers, refusing 1965 contracts because they wanted more money: wanted a share in the big bonuses given rookies.

The 6 foot 9, 315-pound Ladd and 6-5, 270-pound Faison were all-AFL at tackle and end in the Chargers last year. Signed in 1961, they were half of a defensive line that helped establish AFL records in nearly all defensive aspects of the game in 1965.

San Diego General Manager Coach Sid Gillman's only comment Sunday was that he had none.

But a Charger spokesman said there's more than money behind Gillman's problem.

"Sid feels everybody in football is looking down his neck. He believes that if Ladd and Faison are given big bonuses to sign, other players will follow suit and it will hurt the game," the spokesman said.

By playing out their options and taking automatic 10 per cent raises, Ladd and Faison turned to Page 5, Col. 1.

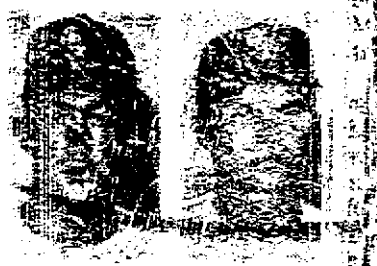

CLINTON, Ia. — The Foxes swept a pair, 4-2 in 15 innings in the afternoon and, 12-2, at night from Clinton's Pinks Sunday.

Mays Injured Slightly, but Giants Decision Cards, 2-0

Pirates' Veale Hurls 4-Hit Shutout; Dodgers Win Behind Sutton, 3-0

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

It was a weak week for Willie Mays, who was having trouble hitting anything.

Mays added to his recent problems Sunday by suffering a bruised left knee in San Francisco's 2-0 victory over St. Louis.

The injury, suffered in a first base collision with the Cardinals' George Kernek, forced Mays from the game in the fourth inning, marking the third time in the past week that he left a game before it was over.

Drastic Reduction
A cold and an upset stomach sent Mays home early last Tuesday and Wednesday and kept him out of the line-up altogether Thursday. Contributing to his ills was a bruised right hand which hampered his swing and caused him to throw his bat a couple of times.

The result has been a drastic reduction in his hitting output.

When he hit his 511th homer and tied Mel Ott's National League career record last Sunday, it gave Mays six homers in the Giants' first 12 games.

But six games later Mays not only failed to break the record, he also has seen his batting average drop 62 points from .348 to .286.

He has managed only two hits in 17 at bats during that time while failing to drive in a run and getting the ball out of the infield only five times.

Mays, who will be 35 this Friday, took a day off today as the Giants played an exhibition game. He expected to return to the line-up Tuesday.

Bruise Not Serious
San Francisco trainer Leo Hughes described the bruise he suffered Sunday as painful but not serious.

The collision with Kernek came when he raced to first on a grounder in the fourth inning. As the first baseman reached for the low throw from third baseman Charlie Smith, Mays hit him, flipped over in the air and landed on his back. He got up and limped off the field.

In other National League games Pittsburgh walloped New York 8-0. Los Angeles downed Cincinnati 3-0. Houston whipped Atlanta 7-1 and Chicago defeated Philadelphia 6-1.

The Giants scored their first run with the help of Smith's bad throw on Mays' grounder. Dick Schofield went to third on the play and scored as Willie McCovey fled out. Gaylor Perry stopped St. Louis on four hits.

Gets Lusty Support
Pittsburgh's Bob Veale also pitched a four-hitter and received lusty batting support from Roberto Clemente. Clemente lashed two doubles and

Bone Fracture Discovered
Graustark Out of Derby

By ORLO ROBERTSON
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — With Graustark sidelined by a broken bone, Saturday's running of the $125,000-added Kentucky Derby shaped up today as a wide-open scramble with at least four colts vying for the favorite's role.

There are about 20 3-year-olds either at Churchill Downs or en route who can be listed as possible starters in the 1 1/4-mile race. However, the list may be trimmed to 14 or even 12 by the weather. Tuesday's Derby Trial and owners' unwillingness to part with the $1,500 necessary to get a horse into the starting line-up.

Entries for the first of the Triple Crown series, which also include the Preakness and Belmont Stakes, will be made Thursday morning. Post time Saturday is 5:45 p.m. EDT.

Graustark was taken out of the race Sunday by Trainer Loyd Gentry when X-rays showed the son of Ribot had a fractured bone just above the hoof of his left foreleg.

Graustark's failure to make the Big One also did away with Buckpasser, the other, is contending for a quarter-crack. He took the Flamingo this year following a 2-year-old campaign which carried him to the juvenile title.

Graustark was unbeaten in his first seven races, three last year, but was beaten by Abe's Hope in the Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland last Thursday.

The Derby fillyer Filberts lost no time going to work on the remainder of the field. They came up with Abe's Hope, owned by John Bartell and Robert Byfield of Chicago, as the probable 5-2 choice.

Abe's Hope has not run a bad race this year. The Illinois-bred son of Better Bee had Buckpasser beaten in the Flamingo only to lose in the final stride. He finished first in the Florida Derby but was disqualified and placed fourth.

The Future of the FVRPC

Several recommendations have been made to aid the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission in performing its tasks which we feel are worthy of serious consideration.

After reviewing the commission's activities of the past 10 years, Harland Bartholomew and Associates, planning consultants, recommend the commission's staff be expanded in order to more effectively implement the regional plan and assist Valley municipalities. At present, the two-member staff is overworked and has difficulties meeting its obligations to the municipalities. Because of the increasing problems on a regional basis, the commission's staff should be increased to devote the needed time to each project.

Inclusion of the towns of Vinland, Clayton, Greenville, Kaukauna and Vandenberg in the commission would provide for a more orderly development of the Fox Valley, as they are beginning to face the problems of urbanization.

Because many of the commission's regional plans will cross county lines, we feel it is important that Winnebago, Outagamie and Calumet Counties join the commission, as recommended by the consultants. The cooperation and advice of the three counties is essential if such projects as the proposed tri-county expressway are to become a reality.

While the recommendation that the commission's budget should be tripled may come as a shock to individual municipalities, it should be considered as a long-range development, rather than an immediate goal. This ties in with the recommended increase in the staff.

The suggestion that the commission take more initiative in assisting municipalities with their individual problems is a worthwhile one. Often a problem will become serious because there was no one to point it out when it first appeared. More preventive action will be needed as the area undergoes increasing urbanization in order to avoid a multiplicity of major problems at a later date.

An important factor in planning progress is coordination and cooperation between planning agencies. We feel, as stated in the analysis of the commission, that "there is more than enough work to be done" by the Fox Valley and Wolf River Basin regional planning commissions without any duplication or conflict. Both commissions have contributed much in their individual realms of responsibility. Both are essential to the welfare of northeastern Wisconsin.

Continued public support of the Fox Valley Commission is necessary to assure its continued contribution to the area. We feel sure it will receive that support during the coming years.

New Election Experience for Alabama

In Wilcox County, Alabama, Sheriff P. C. (Lum) Jenkins, who has held the office for 25 years, decided after a thoughtful review of campaign strategy, to shake the hands of some of the county residents he had never greeted before. Wisconsin candidates for sheriff, who do little else beside trying to meet people, would be puzzled at this news.

But Sheriff Jenkins, a candidate in the Alabama primary Tuesday, is faced with a situation he never had before during his long tenure. As a consequence of the federal voters rights law, Wilcox County now has about 3,600 registered voters who are Negroes, about 1,000 more than the estimated white voting-age population of the county. And the sheriff is opposed in the Democratic primary by Walter Calhoun, a Negro grocer.

While it is an isolated case in rural Alabama, the political uncertainties in Wilcox County typify an election campaign which will make history for the state. The new consideration is the vote of Negroes who have been added to the registration rolls as the result of the workings of the federal voter rights act.

On the state level, the situation is further complicated by the wife of Gov. George Wallace running for governor as his stand-in. Gov. Wallace, who preached to Wisconsin audiences in the 1964 presidential primary about preserving states rights, put his wife's name on the ballot to get around a state constitution ban against consecutive terms.

Mott Death Still a Mystery

The death of Newcomb Mott, an American tourist who was arrested and convicted by a Soviet court of illegally entering Russia, remains a mystery. In fact the episodes surrounding his arrest, conviction as well as either his murder or suicide are clouded.

Mott did illegally cross the Arctic border from Norway into the Soviet Union without the necessary visa from the Soviet government. But the sentence of eighteen months at forced labor for the offense was severe even for the espionage leery Russians. Soviet authorities claim that Mott became irrational during his journey on the Trans-Siberian railway to the labor camp, that he threw jars of food at his guards and then somehow inflicted the numerous lacerations which apparently caused his death. But the Russians failed to specify the weapon he used. And they refused to make available to American investigators the clothing Mott was wearing at the time of his death. According to counsel for the Mott family in New York, "independent examination" of the body by a New York doctor "demonstrated beyond question that Mr. Mott was murdered."

Looking Backward

Matter of Great Importance

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton
Crescent for April 28, 1866.

It is believed that the cholera will sweep across this continent during this present year.

In 1832 and 1849, whole families were swept out of existence, and it was often impossible to prove that they were dead.

Hence, taking a selfish view of the matter, it is of the highest importance that a perfect register of births, marriages and deaths should be kept up everywhere, so that the rights of heirs may be fully protected.

Every clergyman, every physician and justice should make prompt reports to the Register of Deeds, and those who fail to do so should be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.

25 YEARS AGO

Officers of the Seymour Bowling Association that year were William Rankin, president; Milton Kuehne, vice president; Norman Haef, secretary-treasurer. They were all re-elected for the 1941-1942 season.

Miss Laura Shoemaker was elected president of the Wau-paca branch of the American Association of University Women. Other officers included Mrs. Viola Czeskleba and Mrs. David Shambau, vice presidents; Miss Sophelia Kurkowski, treasurer, and Miss Helen Stedman, secretary.

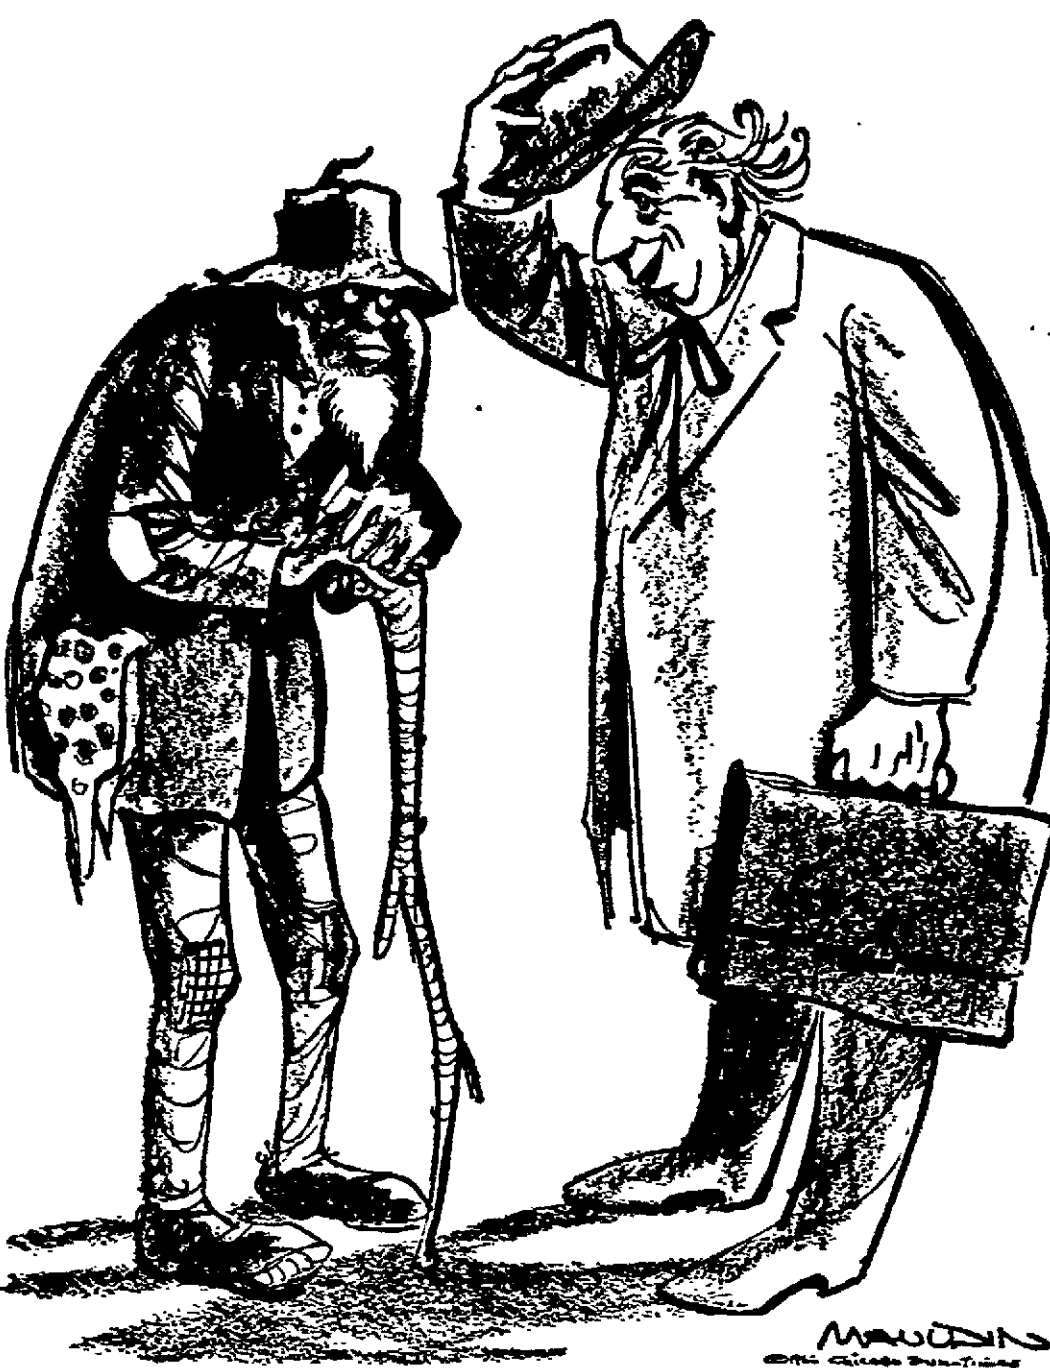

About 200 persons attended the cornerstone laying ceremonies the previous day of the Mt. Calvary Lutheran Church in Kimberly. Services were held in the village hall with the Rev. William Roepke, Marquette, Mich., chairman of the Wisconsin Synod's federal mission board, delivering the sermon. Officiating at the ceremonies at the site of the new church was the Rev. W. F. Wichmann, pastor of the Kimberly church.

Visit to Village Shows Basic Needs
Of Viet Nam, Job of Meeting Them

BY JOSEPH KRAFT

LONG XUYEN, SOUTH VIET NAM — This capital city of Angiang Province in the Mekong Delta is probably the most secure area anywhere in South Viet Nam. It thus provides a good measure of conditions necessary to put an end to the fighting.

Kraft

Angiang also happens to be the most important of the four areas designated as pilot projects in the latest American effort to generate social and economic progress in Viet Nam—the so-called revolutionary development program. The province also provides a good measure of the basic needs of the country—and of how the military regime in Saigon has been working to obstruct the meeting of these needs.

With respect to security, Angiang is virtually free of both harassing incidents by irregular Viet Cong guerrillas and of major military action by the so-called main force, or regular, units of the other side. The reason for this relative safety does not lie in any American presence. On the contrary, the recent stationing of a handful of Sea Bees in the province, even though they were here to do construction work, aroused not confidence among the local population but fear that they might now become a target.

Neither does the security of Angiang depend on the Vietnamese army. There is only a small number of regular Vietnamese army units in the province. And, once again, there was more alarm than confidence in Long Xuyen when, a few days ago, a regiment of government troops did move into town.

The reason for the relative peace in Angiang lies in the local people. The province is almost entirely populated by members of the Hoa Hao Buddhist sect, a tightly knit religious community that stretches from a council of elders at the top down through Hoa Hao officials in every village and hamlet.

Thanks to this close cohesion the Hoa Hao have long been able to keep all outsiders at a distance. They have an intelligence network that makes it known immediately when strangers appear in the local villages. They have a militia that mounts guard day and night and does regular patrol work. By these means they have made penetration by the Viet Cong extremely difficult. But trade patterns and the almost complete absence of even the mildest incidents suggest that there is one more element in the picture.

While no one can prove it, the odds are heavy that the Hoa Hao leaders, after first having made Viet Cong penetration difficult, have since gone on to work out a tacit arrangement with the other side. It seems likely that the Viet Cong does not cause the Hoa Hao any trouble because the Hoa Hao, for its part, does not cause the Viet Cong much trouble. And to me, anyhow, the lesson is that it is possible, provided there is internal cohesion, to work out a balance with the other side—at least on a local basis.

As to the development of the province, the projected American program provides for an increase in rice yields by the use of better seeds and more fertilizer and irrigation; and for the development of large rock quarries as a source of construction materials, which are now being imported to Saigon. Special stress is put on the expansion of secondary education—and with good reason.

Secondary education represents the path out of rural ignorance and misery to a decent job in town. But at present probably less than 15 per cent of the children who finish 5th grade are able to go on to 6th grade. Here in Long Xuyen there are about 200 places in secondary school for an estimated group of 4,000 eligible students.

The past failure to provide secondary schooling is a critical element in the success of the insurgency to date. For much of the recruiting by the Viet Cong is done locally here in the delta and particularly among young men of secondary school ages.

And why do they enter the Viet Cong? Well, a good guess is that, while the government denies them the possibility of advance through the school system, the Viet Cong offer them the possibility of making something of themselves as guerrilla leaders. For the young men cut off from education, in other words, the rebellion is a step up the ladder.

ORIENTAL "SQUEEZE"

But, despite the obvious relevance of the Angiang development program to the war effort, the Vietnamese military officials have been something less than keen on the program. Without exactly opposing the project, they have dragged their feet, made difficulties and slowed things down.

The reason for their opposition is a matter of guesswork. But very well-informed Americans and civilian Vietnamese are not in much doubt. To a large extent, the military run the country and the four regional corps and the provinces and villages as a racket.

The job of province chief is let out at a price of several thousand dollars per month. The province chief, in turn, takes a toll on all the various activities going on. There is almost certainly a rake-off on contracts to mine the quarries. One well authenticated report indicates that a truckload of food going up from the delta to Saigon has to pay transit "taxes" to more than half a dozen different police jurisdictions.

Many of these practices are no doubt an accepted part of the Asian way of doing business. I certainly do not mean to take a Pecksniffian view of the matter. But the fact is that the old way of doing business does not square with the requirements for cutting into the strength of the other side of this war. That is one of the reasons why progress has been so slow and why, to me anyhow, there can be no outcome of the war until the military control of government is ended.

Wisconsin Report

Public Yet Doesn't Understand Impact Of Vocational Law

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — A leading member of the State Board of Vocational and Adult Education has complained that there is not yet a general appreciation of the new vocational school reorganization law and the impact it will have upon local governments and the availability of post-high school educational opportunity for thousands of young citizens.

Wyngaard

To some listeners, including statehouse reporters who have been closely involved in this development of the last year, that sounded strange. But the critic was quite right. There is not yet been a public awareness of what will stand as the most significant departure in Wisconsin education policy in a decade at least, and probably in a longer period. There is, indeed, the very real danger that when the Vocational Board and the Coordinating Committee for High Education declare their restricting plans about midsummer there will be shock and surprise and some resistance. This is so because local government officials and private citizens have not been attentive to the fact of the reorganization law, and its sweeping implications for change in the educational structure throughout the state.

WHY?

One reason for inattention probably is the fact that the legislature decided that the effective date of the reorganization would be 1970.

There is a tendency among local officials and politicians, as well as private citizens, to ignore something that looms in the fairly distant future. There are plenty of immediate problems to occupy them.

But probably more important is the preoccupation of the press, and the politicians, and the public, and the official establishment of the state, with collegiate higher education.

There are smaller communities in Wisconsin now enthusiastically pledging generous shares of their future tax collections in the form of bond issues for state university and University of Wisconsin extension centers in their neighborhoods that will probably grumble in surprise when the time comes to face their liabilities in the vocational school and technical institute expansion and reapportionment. The idea of a local college is more easily grasped. It contains prestige values. College is increasingly the status symbol of today's parents.

There is the vision of "smokeless factories," as Gov. Knowles perhaps somewhat puts it when he puzzles about the lack of response to the vocational education effort that has a potential for benefiting a considerable larger proportion of the high school graduates of the future. There is also the influence of the higher education establishment, which is clearly dominant in the politics of education in the legislature and elsewhere.

MAJORITY INTEREST

That additional training is required for today's high school graduate for employability and economic sufficiency scarcely needs documentation.

The high school graduate today stands in the same relation to the job market that the grammar school boy had in his father's time. The increase in the number of high school boys and girls entering college is truly explosive—and is a tribute to the endurance of the Wisconsin taxpayer of today and tomorrow. But even in this pacesetter time, only about 38 out of 100 high school graduates of 1965 entered college, public and private. Many of those who entered are drop-outs, or will be.

Perhaps two-thirds of all of the high school graduates of today, and for the next decade or more, if they hope to compete in a swiftly evolving economy, must look elsewhere for training.

That was the rationale of the legislature last fall when it enacted the bold new vocational school expansion law, promising a series of strong regional training centers, with improved technical and academic offerings, stronger faculties, a broader tax base, and the most liberal opportunities for a majority of young people ever conceived in this state.

Demotions Due Reservists Who Dodge Drills

3 Unexcused Misses Are 'Excessive' for Reserves, Guardsmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army is getting tougher with Reserves and National Guardsmen who dodge drills with their units, it was learned today.

Gen. Harold K. Johnson, Army chief of staff, recently ordered demotion of any Reserve or National Guardsman ducking too many drills. The demotion would be for inefficiency.

Another part of Johnson's order provides that certain draft-age guardsmen and reservists who fail to keep up their obligated drills may be referred to Selective Service for two years of active duty.

Excessive Absences
The order specified that three unexcused absences in any year "are considered excessive."

The new penalties are in addition to an existing requirement that any guardsman or reservist failing a drilling obligation may be called to active duty for 45 days of training.

Most National Guardsmen and Reserves in the ready reserve are required to drill with their units 48 times a year. Men serving in the highest-priority units must attend 72 drills a year.

Demotions Imposed
The demotion in rank, according to Johnson's order, will be imposed before a man begins his 45-day active duty training penalty.

There is special emphasis on National Guard and Reserve training currently because of the Viet Nam situation and, particularly in the case of highest-priority units, because of a drive to get a 150,000-man "select force" in top readiness by July 1.

The men who would be vulnerable for "priority induction" are Reserves or National Guardsmen below 26 years of age who have signed up for four to 10 months of basic training in a regular Army center, but who have not yet been able to undergo this training.

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Arthur C. Elliott, 46, the first Negro ever appointed a U.S. marshal, is sworn in today. His territory will be the northern Ohio district.

Elliott, a Cincinnati attorney who was appointed by President Johnson to succeed Fred Hoh, who died last December, says he prefers to "minimize racial things."

Trio Indicted for Conspiracy in Mexico

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Melvin Laird, R-Wis., wants the Johnson Administration to spell out its policy towards elections in South Viet Nam.

He asked the President to say before the voting whether a genuinely free election is possible.

Laird, in a speech prepared today, asked: "What steps are being taken to provide the kind of election which could be regarded as an expression of the will of the people of South Viet Nam?"

Mystery Over Mao Spurs Speculation on Red China

expect any sudden changes in policy direction, especially so far as the United States is concerned.

It is assumed here that the top leadership under Mao will continue whenever the reins of power pass from the hands of the old leader. This group includes president Liu Shao-chi, Premier Chou En-lai, Defense Minister Marshal Lin Biao and Foreign Minister Chen Yi.

So far as Washington authorities know, all these men are dedicated to the theories of aggressive communist world revolution—a major source of conflict between China and other nations, including the Soviet Union and the United States.

Beyond such men as these, Western experts have little idea who might eventually succeed to power in China, but U.S. authorities on China believe that after a period of time in the post-Mao era a power struggle among personalities inevitably would develop and some of the younger men in the political structure might have different ideas about China's foreign relations.

The Grahams Are Fastest Guns By Long Shot

STANTON, Mo. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Bob Graham may be the fastest guns in the West — or anywhere else, for that matter.

The Houston, Tex., couple proved Sunday in the National Fast Draw Association's world championship that they are the fastest guns around.

Graham, 31, a bespectacled bank-equipment salesman, won his second straight world championship. He averaged .45 of a second — drawing, shooting and hitting targets — in the contest's four classes.

Looks Good Too
His wife, Merrill, 21, a long-haired blonde who looks as good as she shoots, won the women's title with an average drawing and shooting time of .61 of a second. Her fastest was .44.

"I can give the average person a pistol, have him cock it and point it at me and draw and fire before he can," said Graham who uses a modern plastic-lined holster for the old Western sport of gunslinging.

and this more distant future, that the recent change in emphasis in U.S. policy has been directed.

However, the immediate causes of this shift of emphasis are more contemporary.

The Johnson administration obviously has been trying since last December to develop a better tactical position for the next battle in the United Nations over the proposal to vote Red China into membership.

The close vote on this issue last fall caused U.S. officials to re-examine their position.

Overtures since then include a policy decision to let U.S. doctors and public health officials visit China, a decision to let Chinese newsmen come to the United States, and most recently, the granting of permission to various American universities to invite Chinese Communist scholars to come here.

Peking's response has been negative.

These same moves also were calculated by the administration to offset the criticism by some members of Congress of a too rigid policy toward Red China.

He was one of six Marquette alumni who were so honored for their achievements in journalism.

Nervous Tension Cause Of Hyperventilation

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D. (a physical condition. Under Dear Dr. Molner: What is certain circumstances of ex-hyperventilation, its symptoms, tremor, anxiety, fear or tension, cause and prevention? — Mrs. the individual will start to breathe rapidly. It is usually a psychological. With this rapid breathing, the striking examples of a psycho-somatic disorder, in which patient senses a shortness of nervous tension takes charge, breath — so he keeps on trying and results in what seems to be to breathe even faster. The heart pounds; the breathing is rapid but shallow. He now inhales and exhales rapidly, and by breathing out carbon dioxide at such a rate, he reduces it to a lower-than-normal level. There is, from this, some danger of alkalosis, or excessive alkalinity of the blood. Yet between spells, the patient is well, and frequently little if any physical ailment can be detected that can account for the condition. This hyperventilation is particularly familiar to psychiatrists, and of necessity they become adept at recognizing it

I went to a specialist but he does not know what it is. Sometimes it is loud and sometimes not but it makes me very nervous. Can you tell me anything about it? — N.M.M. I'm glad that you have been examined because sometimes ear noises signify a serious disorder. Most of the time they do not. There are multiple causes and several things that can be done to allay the annoyance. I suggest that you get my booklet "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures," which, among other things, will help you stop being so nervous about the problem. Dear Dr. Molner: My pediatrician said my daughter is 20 pounds overweight but he didn't say what to feed her. How can one tell a child of five not to eat what she likes? She doesn't eat much candy or sweets. She loves potatoes, macaroni, cheese and butter, but doesn't drink much milk. — M.P.L. It's not a matter entirely of what she eats; it's how much, too. I'd cut out all candy, and keep desserts simple: gelatin and a graham cracker, for example. It isn't for her, at five, to know what to eat; it's for you to set before her what she needs. Cut down on starchy foods (macaroni, and such). Baked potato is excellent, but without gravy and with very little butter. See that she gets a good helping of protein at each meal — lean meat, fish, egg. She needs milk, for its calcium and other nutrients, but the skim variety will be less fattening. Since she obviously has gotten into the habit of eating a lot, give her some salad, plenty of vegetables (not with cream sauce) and some fruit. At her age, 20 pounds overweight is a lot, and right now is the time to start getting her into better eating habits. Your physician may have other suggestions.

Note to E.C.P.: Angina pectoris does not necessarily imply a coronary occlusion, although the two conditions can be related. "Tips On How to Stop Smoking," by Dr. Molner, will help you give up the habit. To receive a copy of the booklet, write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper, enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Copyright, 1966)
